REBEL AGAINST TAXES.

A LIVELY MEETING AT THE TOWN HALL THURSDAY.

At Its Conclusion Assessor George W. Bray Said He Would Not Increase Red Bank's Assessment—Officials Roasted.

"I will not increase the tax assessments of Red Bank beyond what I have already done. The people here tonight have shown that they do not want me to do this."

This was the statement made by Assessor George W. Bray last Thursday night at the conclusion of a meeting which he had called for taxpayers at the town hall. About 150 persons were present. The meeting lasted about an hour and a half. Nearly every speaker lampooned the mayor and council of Red Bank and the county board of freeholders. The county tax board was also criticized, but the town officials and the freeholders were "knocked" much harder than the tax board.

At the outset of the meeting Mr. Bray stated that the object of calling the taxpayers together was to discuss a recent ruling of the county tax board that assessments at Red Bank must be increased ten per cent over last year's assessment. Mr. Bray said he was instructed by the tax board to assess the town on this basis this year and that similar instructions were given to all the other assessors of Monmouth county. Mr. Bray said he made his assessment on a basis of six per cent increase in ratables. This increased the total assessment $438,000 in the town. This was not satisfactory to the county tax board, Mr. Bray said, and he stated that he was told he must increase the valuations $345,000 more, or a total increase of $783,000 over last year's assessment. Mr. Bray called the meeting last Thursday night, he said, to get advice from the people as to whether he should make the increase or not. He admitted that so far as he knew all the other assessors would make the ten per cent increases in their municipalities.

Mr. Bray said he thought the increase of $438,000 was all that could reasonably be expected. He said he thought the tax board made a mistake in asking Red Bank for more. This was the only criticism he made of the tax board, but he was very emphatic in denouncing the mayor and council. He said they were spending money right and left and spending it needlessly and extravagantly. "If they keep on," declared Mr. Bray, "they will ruin our town. Taxes will be so high that people will be driven out of the town." Mr. Bray said there was no reason why the town appropriations for this year should be higher than last year. "If our town officials had held the budget down to last year's figure the tax rate would have been reduced $2.00 to $2.25 on $1,000," said Mr. Bray. Mr. Bray accompanied his denunciation of the "town hall crowd," as he frequently referred to the mayor and council, with denunciation of the county board of freeholders. He said they had increased their budget for this year beyond all reason.

Remarks along the same line were made by various speakers, notably by O. E. Davis, A. E. Russell and Frank J. Manson. Mr. Davis claimed that Red Bank property is assessed higher in proportion to its value than property anywhere else in the county. He said for this reason a ten per cent increase in ratables was unjustifiable. He was unsparing in his criticism of the mayor and council and of the county board of freeholders. Mr. Davis seemed to be particularly indignant over the fact that the town officials had exceeded their appropriations for 1921. "Under the law they can be indicted and they ought to be indicted," shouted Mr. Davis. This remark brought a storm of applause. There was also much hand clapping for every speaker who denounced the increasing cost of government and the waste of public money.

Mr. Davis suggested that a committee of ten persons be named to wait on the county tax board, the mayor and council and the board of freeholders. This suggestion was adopted, and Mr. Davis after his speech was made chairman of the committee. The members of the committee were not appointed by Mr. Davis but were nominated and elected by the meeting. The committee was instructed to protest against the increase in ratables at Red Bank and against the budget of appropriations which the mayor and council has under consideration. The committee is also under instructions to protest against the county budget. Mr. Davis is chairman of the committee. The other members are Fred Oakley, Frank J. Manson, Dr. William M. Thompson, Edward S. Allaire, Mrs. Henry S. White, Harry A. Hawkins, Ernest Arend and Frank J. Dibben.

Mr. Bray asked the people at the meeting whether they desired him to make the increase in ratables asked for by the county board or to refuse to do so. "I want you to thoroughly understand the situation," said Mr. Bray. "If I refuse to make the assessment it is very likely that the state tax board will send experts to Red Bank to make a re-assessment of the town. The state tax board is the boss of the county tax board. The county tax board was ordered by the state board to make the ten per cent increase and they are passing their orders on to the assessors. If the state tax board sends experts here to make a re-assessment the chances are that it will be very much higher than a ten per cent increase. What do you say? Do you want me to go ahead and make the increased assessment or would you rather take a chance, with the possibility of the state board sending experts here."

From all parts of the room came the cry: "Take a chance! Take a chance!"

"Very well, then," said Mr. Bray as he took his seat.

At the end of the meeting he stated his determination not to make a further increase in the assessment of the town.

NEW LEGION MEMBERS.

Little Silver and Colt's Neck Boys Join Red Bank Post.

John Simpson of Little Silver and John G. Ward, Charles S. VanDorn and Newell VanDorn of Colt's Neck were received as new members of Shrewsbury post of the American legion of Red Bank last week. At a conference for the benefit of war veterans at Freehold Friday night the legion was represented by Lloyd Sickles and Ormond H. Minton and the women's auxiliary of the legion was represented by Mrs. Leon de la Reussille and Mrs. Jennie Decker.

LUMBER YARD SITE SOLD.

RED BANK FIRM BUYS PROPERTY ALONG RAILROAD.

Piece of Land in South Red Bank Has Been Bought by the Monmouth Lumber and Supply Company from Frank E. Price.

The Monmouth lumber and supply company of Red Bank, of which Louis J. Sieling is president and William Curchin, Jr., is treasurer, has bought a piece of land in the southern part of Red Bank east of the Southern railroad tracks. Frank E. Price owned the land and he sold it to the lumber company for $11,000. The property is between Central avenue and the railroad tracks. It has a frontage of 400 feet on the railroad and on the street. It is 135 feet wide on the south side, where it adjoins the Public Service power plant, and it is 128 feet wide on the north side.

The lumber and supply company bought the land as a storage place for lumber and cement. It has built a board fence seven feet high around the property. A shed twenty feet wide will be built across the entire southern end of the property to protect dressed lumber from inclement weather. The company will carry lumber for house building and for heavier construction work, such as bridge building, etc. The company is agent for the Lawrence cement company. The offices of the company are in the Broad street national bank building.

TALKS TO OLDS DISTRIBUTORS.

Optimism Keynote of Addresses Given Before Dealers Attending Show.

A high note of optimism was recently expressed in addresses given by Pierre S. duPont, president of the General Motors corporation, A. B. C. Hardy, president of the Olds Motor works, Guy H. Peasley, sales manager of the Lansing plant, and Charles H. Larson, eastern Oldsmobile distributor, at a dinner at the Hotel Commodore given 400 Olds dealers and distributors.

All speakers declared they had great hopes of a general business revival early in 1922 and that the automotive industries should be back on as strong a basis as ever in pre-war days.

Mr. duPont, in a lengthy address, outlined the history of transportation, declaring that without means of transportation there would be no civilization.

He compared the automobile to the railroads and stated that the motor vehicle is in large measure taking over the duties formerly performed by the rails. For the first time in the history of the United States, he pointed out, mileage of the railroads is going backward. There are now about 2,000 miles less of rails in the country than there were a year ago.

In complimenting the Olds Motor works on its good work during the past year and on the efficiency of its present management, he declared:

"You have a great leader in this division in Mr. Hardy. He is not a novice like I am. When he says a thing he knows what he is saying from his own knowledge. You can rely on him—not only on his knowledge but on the square deal that he is going to give and is giving to every man in your division. He has a noble band with him—a band of men who, I dare say, are 100 per cent convinced today that their product is good. If there is a doubter in this room let him stand up and express his doubts now or at any other time. We want to hear honest troubles and we want to correct them.

"I am proud to be a General Motors man and I hope the members of different divisions are equally proud. There is a great association in the number of people who are working with us to a common end."

In speaking of the general situation in the automotive field, Mr. A. B. C. Hardy, president and general manager of the Olds Motor works said:

"The quality of our cars and of our service, as you all well know, has improved steadily through the past year, and we are right now delivering even higher grade cars in their respective price classes than Olds Motor works has ever before delivered in its long and honorable history. We shall at no time sacrifice quality for price, but shall continue steadily to further refine our product.

"To produce our quality at the low prices we have named, we at the factory have set our house in order by bringing all our materials down to the lowest 1922 basis for merchandise of equal quality. And our labor, which is over 95 per cent American, is co-operating to increase quality and at the same time give us economical production costs.

"We are convinced that our own material and labor costs are at the bottom and now that practically all automobile manufacturers, whose distribution is on a national scale, have announced their bottom 1922 prices, which are undoubtedly based upon bottom material costs and quantity production, the whole industry can go forward and the consumer can buy with assurance that the probable tendency in automobile price from now on will be slightly upward.

"Our own retail sales on the opening day of the New York show surely indicate that the consumers have decided that 1922 prices are now at bottom and that now is the time to buy. All our dealers and distributors may now feel optimistic as to the future—as we do at the factory."

W. V. Faunce, Chicago Oldsmobile distributor, Thomas O'Brien, Mr. M. S. Allen, J. P. Muller of New York, and several others gave interesting talks. "Service, Co-operation, and a Square Deal" is the slogan for a bigger 1922 business.—Advertisement.

Davidson, Charles Allaire, Tony Bacigalupi, George Skokos, William Milonis, Albert S. Miller, Thomas Irving Brown, William Noglows and James Havanoris.

Philip S. Walton, Abram Kridel and Jacob Yanko were appointed members of the auditing committee.

A letter of thanks was received from the iceyacht club for a prize which the association donated for an iceyacht race, and a report was made by the by-laws committee.

RED BANK SCHOOL BUDGET

SALARY INCREASES ASKED FOR BY THE TEACHERS.

School Board Shows a Favorable Disposition Towards Granting the Request—Appropriations to be Higher Than Last Year.

The Red Bank board of education met last Thursday night to make up a budget of expenses. The work was not completed, but it progressed far enough to show that the expenses of running the schools would be greater for the coming fiscal year than they were this year. The board's fiscal year does not begin until after school closes. Some of the school trustees said they thought the budget this year would be about $10,000 over last year's figure.

No action was taken in regard to teachers' salaries. A letter was received from the teachers' association asking that the salaries of teachers be increased. Although nothing was done in regard to the salary part of the budget, the comments of the trustees seemed to indicate that they would comply with the teachers' request and increase their pay.

The trustees said they thought they would finish the year with a small surplus, despite the fact that the school money they received from the state was $5,000 less than they had expected. Some appropriations would be exceeded, the trustees said, but there would be money left from other appropriations and these surpluses would slightly overbalance the deficits.

Mort V. Pach, president of the board, stated in a casual way that he would not run for re-election as a school trustee. His term expires this year. Two other trustees whose terms expire are Charles A. Minton and Ezra Osborn. They have not stated whether they will stand for re-election or not. The election will be held Tuesday night, February 14th.

Mrs. George Turkington of Rumson applied for a leave of absence on account of the sickness of her husband and it was granted. Mrs. Turkington's place as teacher in the Mechanic street school is being taken by Miss Marguerite Enright.

PAID OUT $21,400.

This Sum Distributed by Eatontown Building and Loan Association.

The Eatontown building and loan association paid off its first shareholders last Thursday, when $21,400 was distributed among 107 persons in amounts ranging from $200 to $2,000. The series had run out in eleven and a half years and the shareholders netted 7.9 per cent on their shares. The demand for mortgage loans is in excess of the association's resources at present.

New Hospital Officers.

Mrs. Thomas N. McCarter of Rumson has been elected president of the Long Branch hospital association. She succeeds Mrs. T. M. Harper, who had been an official of the hospital board thirty years. Sigmund Eisner and Monroe Eisner of Red Bank are officers of the hospital and Edmund Wilson was appointed counsel of the board.

HOLMDEL FARMERS' MEETING.

Henry Cross, Jr., Picked to Represent District on the Board.

Holmdel members of the Monmouth county farmers' co-operative association met at the Holmdel town hall last week and selected Henry Cross, Jr., as their representative on the board of directors of the association. Several speeches were made, the tenor of the speeches being that the farmers were determined to develop co-operative marketing until control of the potato crop is obtained. The speakers said that by gaining this control the farmers could eliminate the dealers who underbid them and force down prices.

A SILVER WEDDING GIFT.

SURPRISE FOR REV. AND MRS. DANIEL P. DOYLE.

Congregation of the Reformed Church of Colt's Neck Made a Present of a Chest of Silver to Their Pastor and His Wife.

Rev. Daniel P. Doyle, pastor of the Reformed church of Colt's Neck, was at the parsonage Friday night playing dominoes when Elder George S. P. Hunt appeared and told Mr. and Mrs. Doyle that they were wanted at the chapel. Hurrying to the chapel, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle found that 150 persons had gathered there to help the clergyman and his wife celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Doyle were completely taken by surprise for such an event was wholly unexpected by them.

One of the features of the celebration was a gift of a chest of silver to Mr. and Mrs. Doyle by the congregation. The presentation speech was made by Rev. John Wesley Towers, a retired Methodist clergyman who is now engaged in farming at Colt's Neck. Mr. Towers praised Mr. Doyle's work at Colt's Neck and commented on what he described as a delightful spirit of christian harmony and co-operation among the congregation. He said it would be hard to find a place where this spirit was more manifest than at the Colt's Neck church.

Mr. Towers also referred to Mr. Doyle's services as teacher of the Scobeyville school. He said that not only Colt's Neck and the members of the Reformed church should be grateful to Mr. Doyle, but that the whole of Atlantic township was indebted to him for his faithful and efficient service. Mr. Doyle was so overcome with emotion that he found it difficult to reply.

A general good time was enjoyed by all present until a late hour. Children romped and played, women talked about fashions and canning, and men played dominoes and talked crops and politics. A fine collation was served, comprising chicken salad, tuna fish salad, sandwiches, pickles, olives, cranberry jelly, cake and coffee.

The church has just closed one of the most prosperous years of its history. Many improvements have been made to the church property during the past twelve months, and few rural churches in the county are as well equipped as this one.

JUNIORS' DAY.

Children of Members of the Woman's Club to be Entertained.

Friday of this week will be "Juniors' Day" at the Red Bank Woman's club and the children of the club members will be entertained at the clubhouse. The meeting is intended to bring about an acquaintanceship among the children of the club members as well as to give them an afternoon of pleasure. Mrs. Jesse Minot, Mrs. John J. Leonard and Mrs. Katherine Throckmorton will be in charge of the program. Refreshments and a social time will close the afternoon's affairs. Mrs. Rebecca Taylor will be the hostess.

Last Thursday night Mrs. Beatrice Forbes Robinson Hale gave a lecture on musical comedy, moving pictures and the modern play to a large audience at the Red Bank high school. Mrs. Hale told of the prigin of the theater in this country and of its growth and development. She told of its divergence from play acting of comedy, tragedy and melodrama to the moving picture movement of today and she described the influence of moving pictures of various kinds on the minds of the spectators.

The ushers at the lecture were Mrs. Randolph Stryker, Mrs. Eva Brown, Mrs. Herbert W. Williams, Mrs. George Manson and Miss Mary Mount. The ticket takers were Mrs. Edwin Fraser and Miss Etta Miller.

TROUBLE FOR COAL MEN.

ARRESTS MADE AT LITTLE SILVER AND SEABRIGHT.

Charge Made Against Benjamin A. Shoemaker Because His Driver Didn't Have a Ticket—Seabright Dealer Fined $25.

Benjamin A. Shoemaker, a coal dealer at Little Silver, was arrested last week because Emerson Quackenbush, one of his employees, did not have a ticket with him showing the weight and the destination of a load of coal he was delivering. Mr. Shoemaker was to have had a hearing Saturday before Justice Edward W. Wise. Theodore D. Parsons, lawyer for Mr. Shoemaker, demanded a trial before a jury and for this reason the trial was deferred until the coming Friday afternoon.

George Washington Elliott of Seabright was arrested last week for being short on a load of coal screenings. Mr. Elliott had sold the screenings for thirty cents. They were weighed by his employee while he was at dinner. Two weights and measures men intercepted the driver while the coal was being delivered. Mr. Elliott was fined $25 and costs. To get fined such a large amount on a thirty-cent sale was pretty tough, Mr. Elliott said, but he made a joke about the matter and paid the fine.

SHOT TWICE AT HIS GIRL.

A SUNDAY AFTERNOON FRACAS ON BEECH STREET.

Russell Holmes Got Mad at Jennie Smith and Fired Twice at Her With a Revolver Without Hitting Her—Holmes is Now in Jail.

Russell Holmes, a young colored man, left the home of Miss Jennie Smith on Beech street in a rage Sunday afternoon. He went to the house of his uncle, William Jackson, and got his uncle's revolver. Returning with the weapon to Jennie's home, he renewed his quarrel with the young woman. In an adjoining room were Jennie's brothers, Samuel and Chester Smith. Samuel was playing a guitar and Chester was making music on a piano while the verbal fight went on in the kitchen.

Suddenly two shots were fired. The musicians ceased playing and rushed into the room where the firing was done. Holmes was standing with a revolver in his hand and a fierce expression on his face. Jennie was grovelling on the floor. She had not been struck by the bullets, but she had fallen to the floor from fright.

Samuel struck Holmes on the head with his guitar. At the same instant Chester rushed forward and knocked the revolver out of Holmes's hand. Holmes was arrested and he had a hearing before Justice Edward W. Wise. In default of $2,000 bail he was sent to the county jail.

GRAND JURY DINNER.

Many Women Present at the Banquet of the October Term Jury.

The grand jurors who served at the October term of court in Monmouth county gave a dinner at the Marlborough hotel at Asbury Park last Wednesday afternoon. The dinner committee was composed of Michael E. Sexton of Asbury Park, Albert L. Ivins of Red Bank and Miss Annie Laurie Tilton of Keyport. It was said to have been the most elaborate grand jury dinner ever served in the county. Upwards of sixty persons were at the dinner, of whom about one-third were women. James D. Otterson, the foreman of the grand jury, was toastmaster, and short talks were given by county officials and by members of the grand jury. Albert L. Ivins gave a talk concerning the work of the grand jury and at its close he presented a Masonic charm to Mr. Otterson and a fountain pen to Mr. Sexton, who was sergeant-at-arms. Each member of the grand jury received a silver pencil as a remembrance of their companionship.

FIRE AT COLT'S NECK.

Smokehouse and Meat Burned on Nicholas Dullmeyer's Place.

A smokehouse owned by Nicholas Dullmeyer of Colt's Neck was badly damaged by fire one night last week. The meat from four hogs which had been placed in the building to be cured was destroyed. Most of the meat was owned by Mr. Dullmeyer but some of it belonged to two of his neighbors, John E. Beckman and Theodore Wuebber. A slow fire had been kindled in the building to smoke the hams and a piece of meat fell into the flames. The meat caught fire and set the building ablaze. The side enclosures and floor of the smokehouse did not burn, as they are of concrete, but all the rest of the building as well as all the meat was destroyed.

POOL PLAYING WIZARDS.

A WONDERFUL EXHIBITION AT THE SMOKE SHOP.

An Audience of 233 Persons Watched Ralph J. Greenleaf and Larry Stoutenburg, the Two Greatest Pool Players in the World.

A gathering of 238 persons last Friday night at the Smoke Shop saw the greatest pool playing which has ever taken place at Red Bank. The contestants were Ralph J. Greenleaf, champion pool player of the world, and Larry Stoutenburg, champion fancy shot of the world. Greenleaf defeated Stoutenburg by a score of 150 to 112.

Under an arrangement made with the Smoke Shop, Greenleaf got $120 and one-quarter of the receipts for playing and Stoutenburg got $80 and one-quarter of the receipts. This made a total of $319 which the two "sharps" divided between them. Greenleaf had agreed to forfeit his share of the money if he did not have a high run of seventy balls or more. His highest run was 71 and this saved him from not getting paid.

Some of the shots fairly made the spectators gasp with surprise. The players made the most difficult kinds of combination shots with ease. After the match each man gave an exhibition. Some of Stoutenburg's fancy shots were almost unbelievably amazing. One would almost think that a magnet was used to draw the balls into the pockets.

Greenleaf and Stoutenburg were at the Smoke Shop for a short time Saturday night. Greenleaf gave an autographed picture of himself to George Scott, a boy eighteen years old who works at the place. The champion showed the boy how to make a number of fancy shots. After examining George's hands Greenleaf said George had the most perfect hands for playing pool that he had ever seen on a boy. Stoutenburg will conduct a school for pool players at the Smoke Shop next summer.

DINNER TO A NEW MAYOR.

A Reception Tendered to Thomas J. Sweeney of Seabright.

A reception to Thomas J. Sweeney of Seabright, who was elected mayor of that place last fall, was tendered at the Commercial hotel at Long Branch on Tuesday night of last week. Samuel Brill was toastmaster at the reception and addresses were made by a number of the guests, who included John Thorsen, Alfred Slocum, William R. Fowler, John Letson, Charles Hampton and William W. Letson, councilmen; Chief Jacob Abrams, Assessor James A. Ryan, Abram Embley, William Sandlass, Peter J. Walsh, Samuel Brill, Raymond Ferry, John Ryan, Sharon Barber, William Douglass, Walter J. Sweeney, ex-Mayor George W. Elliott and Edmund W. Cline of Seabright; John M. Corlies, Daniel Naughton, James Woolley, Joseph Ryan, William Ward, J. C. Cottrell and John Naughton of Rumson, and Thomas Beatty, Samuel B. Zartman and William L. Edwards of Long Branch.

A GREAT CROP OF CELERY.

What L. C. Raynor Did With One-Thirteenth of an Acre of Land.

L. C. Raynor of Port Monmouth had a wonderful crop of celery last season. On one-thirteenth of an acre of land he got enough celery to fill 85 crates, which he sold for $184. This gave Mr. Raynor a clear profit of $132.57, as his expenses were $51.43. The celery was set in rows eighteen inches apart. In the rows the plants were set seven inches apart. The celery was shipped to Peter McClees, a commission agent at New York, early in the season. Most of it was rather green. If it had been bleached more and had been shipped later for the Thanksgiving market it would have sold better.

On the same basis as Mr. Raynor's income from this one-thirteenth of an acre of celery, he would have received $2,392 for a full acre and profits of $1,723.41. This is said to be the greatest and most profitable crop of celery ever grown in Monmouth county.

ELLA LEONARD A BRIDE.

The Cook at the Smoke Shop Married to Robert Smith.

Miss Ella Leonard, daughter of Joseph Leonard of Beech street, and Robert Smith, son of Charles Smith of Linden place, were married Thursday at Pilgrim Baptist church at Red Bank by Rev. C. P. Askew. Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Knight were the attendants. A reception was held at the bride's home. She received many gifts. Mrs. Smith is employed at the Smoke Shop as cook. Her husband cares for lawns and furnaces at various places at Red Bank.

ANCIENT FUND DISTRIBUTED.

Heirs of Old-Time Investors to Get the Lawyers' Leavings.

Shortly after the civil war a number of residents of Keyport and vicinity organized the farmers' transportation company of Keyport. The company did a profitable business for a time but afterward its business grew small and it discontinued business entirely. The matter was entirely forgotten until several months ago, when it was discovered that the company had a fund of about $7,000 in a bank. Rufus D. Walling of Keyport was appointed receiver of the company to distribute the money. All of the original members of the transportation company are dead. Last week a report was made to the vice-chancellor that the heirs had been located and the money was ready for distribution. Mr. Walling, the receiver, was allowed a fee of $250 for his work. William E. Foster and Arthur S. VanBuskirk, who were employed as lawyers by the receiver, were awarded a fee of $2,750 to be divided between them. All the tax costs in the case must be paid out of the remainder of the fund and what is left will be distributed to the heirs.

Two Left Arms Broken.

Two women broke their left arms at Keyport the same day last week. The two women are Mrs. Samuel Aumack and Mrs. Maggie Wixon of Freehold; who are sisters. Mrs. Aumack slipped and fell on the sidewalk while walking along the street. Just about the same time Mrs. Wixon slipped and fell while walking in the dooryard of her father's home.

Examination for Postmaster.

An examination will be held at Asbury Park on February 18th to fill the vacancy in the position of postmaster of Oakhurst. Samuel Thompson, the postmaster, died a few weeks ago and since then the office has been in charge of Miss Viola VanNote. The compensation for the past year was $501.

COLT'S NECK NEWS.

Cemetery Association Meeting—Road Overseers to be Appointed.

By a unanimous vote at the annual meeting of the Atlantic cemetery association a few days ago Garrett W. Buck was made chairman of the trustees. Charles W. Sherman resigned as treasurer after many years of service and a vote of thanks was accorded to him for his faithful and efficient work. George S. P. Hunt was elected in his place. Mr. Buck and William Mohlmeyer were elected trustees for three years, Arthur Soffel and Warren Matthews were elected trustees for two years and Henry Francis and Frank Matthews were elected trustees for one year. A new office, that of financial agent, was created, and Walter D. Fields was appointed to this position. It is his duty to solicit funds from members and friends of the association for the upkeep of the cemetery.

It is expected that road overseers for the western end of the township will be appointed at a meeting of the township committee at this place Friday afternoon. A large attendance is looked for at the meeting, as there is much interest in this matter. Heretofore the roads in the western part of the township have been in charge of Frank S. Weeks. It is said that this year a number of overseers will be appointed instead of having one man as overseer. Martin Max-Studies has been appointed overseer of the roads in the eastern portion of the township.

George Soffel has started a store at Long Branch for the sale of the dairy products of his farm here.

A number of the residents of this section attended a party at Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Beers's a few nights ago. Mr. and Mrs. Beers formerly lived here.

Robert Claytor has had an acetylene gas tank installed on his place.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Francis spent Friday at Newark.

Mrs. Walter D. Fields is recovering from sickness.

Wesley Towers, who is in merchant marine service, has been home on a furlough. He has just returned from a trip to France. His next voyage will be to China.

Miss Alice Doyle spent Friday at New York.

The county nurse was in this district several days last week. She took a number of children to the Long Branch hospital to have them treated for defective eyesight, defective teeth and poor hearing.

Charles Heulitt and his son Harold Heulitt have just completed a number of improvements to the chapel of the Reformed church. The changes are designed to make the building more modern and convenient.

Miss Florence Campbell spent Saturday and Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Arthur C. Clapp of Little Silver.

Miss Bertha Dunham spent the week-end with relatives at Cliffwood.

Miss Ruby Desmond was home Saturday and Sunday from Long Branch, where she teaches school.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Matthews and their children of Lumberton were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Sickles.

A defective chimney caused a fire at Charles Knight's last week. Walter D. Fields and Arthur Soffel put the blaze out before much damage was done.

TINTON FALLS NEWS.

Brooklyn Man to Move into a House He Recently Bought Here.

Isadore Shapiro of Brooklyn will move next month to the house on Water street which he bought a short time ago from Mrs. C. C. Cooper and which is occupied by Michael Dork. Mr. Dork wil move to the Applegate farm at Nutswamp.

Hoodlums at James Cummings's store Friday night caused considerable damage by throwing bags of flour at each other and destroying goods. Mr. Cummings says he will have the young fellows arrested if he has any more trouble with them.

Mrs. Earl Randall, formerly Miss Edna Covert, died last week at her home at Asbury Park.

Charels T. E. Matthews of Vanderburg killed two foxes near here last week.

Jeannette Smock, daughter of Arthur Smock, is sick with measles.

Mr. and Mrs. Pittman Flannigan on Sunday attended the funeral of Mrs. Flannigan's nephew, Reginald Swain of Hamilton.

Clarence Wilson is nursing a bruise on his leg made by a kick by a cow last week. The cow kicked Mr. Wilson out of his barn through an open door. Then the cow chased Anthony Celli, but he escaped by climbing over a fence.

Samuel Cummings has been notified by the manager of the Oriole baseball team of Red Bank that he will receive a try-out as left fielder on the nine in the spring.

PRESCRIPTIONS today or next year! WHERE will you have them filled?

THE physician studies your illness, decides on the medicines best adapted for immediate aid, writes the prescription for the druggist to fill. His call is never hoped for, never anticipated, yet illness suddenly comes and the doctor's services are immediately required.

You may not need prescriptions today, but you may need them some other time. Isn't it well to be prepared? Set your mind on your individual druggist now. Select him with the same care that you selected your physician.

Whenever a prescription is wanted, remember that druggist and let no one else do this important work. We are speaking for ourselves, of course, in the hope that you already have knowledge of our superior ability in the compounding of scientific medicinal mixtures.

We think you already know of our ability as you already know of our experience and training. Remember us for the most vital prescription work and insist that we fill these prescriptions on our guarantee that they will be followed exactly according to the doctor's orders, properly filled with the finest of drugs and bound to give the patients the best of results.

THE BROAD STREET NATIONAL BANK

RED BANK, NEW JERSEY

Asbury Park is the fastest growing commercial center in the state. Its development of the last few years has absorbed a large proportion of the trade of Monmouth, Ocean and Middlesex counties. It supports in the neighborhood of 200 merchandising enterprises, including the largest resort store in the world and scores of other fine up-to-date stores and shops that annually dispose of $15,000,000 worth of goods.

The reason for this is that the public has found that the right merchandise can be had here at the right price, more economically and more conveniently than by shopping in Newark, New York and Philadelphia.

Asbury Park has a younger generation that is just coming into power in its business affairs. It pledges itself to continue to deserve the widespread public confidence that has made this development possible.

OPEN AFTERNOONS AND EVENINGS

The largest crowds that ever gathered in Asbury Park in the winter season have been thronging the city since the opening of the Business Men's Show in the Casino Monday night and a continuance of the same rush is anticipated for the balance of the week.

It is small wonder that people have come by the hundreds from every town within a radius of thirty miles. The attendance nightly has averaged over seven thousand. The Casino itself, which has a dancing floor accommodating a thousand people, has been beautifully decorated with running pine, palms, potted plants, a wealth of bunting and thousands of shaded colored lights in festoons and sprays, the prevailing color being Nile green. There is a full orchestra and a restaurant and over 150 handsomely decorated booths displaying up-to-date merchandise of every description.

A nightly feature is a series of fashion tableaux furnished by manikins posed on the stage under spotlights. The tableaux begin at 9:00 o'clock. There is also exhibition ballet dancing by amateurs and other entertainment. The admission is free and all are welcome.

This $5,000,000.00 Series of Community Sales Will Gontinue for 10 Weeks in the Exhibitors' Various Places of Business After the Show Is Closed

TOWN TALK.

Councilman Jesse P. Manahan wants to do away with policemen's uniforms and have the policemen wear ordinary clothes, like ordinary citizens. He said at the council meeting last week that the cops could wear a band around a coat sleeve or some other distinguishing mark which would identify them to anyone in need of their services.

* * *

Regardless of the merits or demerits of Mr. Manahan's suggestion, it is not likely that his plan will be carried out. The blue uniform, the star, the shiny brass buttons and all the other regalia of a policeman are a totem of his power. Among savages a totem is an animal or a plant or some object which is supposed to protect the tribe or clan. In Alaska the Indians have many large totem poles with grotesque faces, which chronicle the history of the tribe or family and which are supposed to ward off harm and the vengeance of enemies.

* * *

People today are prone to believe that civilization has gone beyond the totem age, but this is untrue. The totem idea still holds a powerful place in the modern twentieth-century mind, although not in the way it does in the cruder minds of those who have not developed much beyond the status of the cave man ancestors of civilized society. We still function through totems. There are plenty of physical and material ones.

* * *

Clothes are selected very largely with the totem idea. That is what folks mean when they talk about dressing according to their station in life. The housemaid wears a cap and apron to show that she is a housemaid. The waiter in the restaurant puts on a dress suit in the middle of the day to show that he is a waiter. By totem signs an observant eye can distinguish with very little thought what occupation in life a person follows. In the army it is even possible to tell by these signs whether a soldier is an infantryman, an artilleryman, an engineer or some other kind of a fighter.

* * *

Nothing is more of a totem than a policeman's uniform. It stands for the power of the law. That is why one policeman can quell a mob where a dozen ordinary men would be powerless. Judging by the comment one hears, people generally would not like to have other totem ideas annolished. A policeman in plain clothes would be just as able physically and mentally to protect society from crooks and burglars, but a score of sound psychological reasons could be advanced why a policeman thus garbed would lose a great deal of his effectiveness.

o o o o o

Arthur S. Warner has been appointed postmaster of Spring Lake, Mr. Warner was assistant postmaster for several years and on the death of the postmaster last July he was put in charge of the office. Mr. Warner had been an employee of the Spring Lake postoffice more than thirteen years, he having been first employed there in a steady position in 1908. Mr. Warner is a Republican and he got his job because of his politics, but the principle of advancing a man who has proved worthy and capable is a good rule to follow at any time.

The appointment of a new postmaster from the ranks of those employed in the office should be the rule whenever there is a vacancy in the postmastership from death, resignation or any other cause. Vacancies in any of the subordinate positions in the postoffice should also be filled from among the other employees in the office. Such a rule would result in much greater efficiency and in a far more hopeful attitude among the postoffice workers.

Politicians, to be sure, would not like this plan. They want every possible dollar of public money paid out to members of the party. The politicians, from the President of the United States down to the road overseer in a little township, care far less for the public welfare than they do for the party welfare. The good of the party is the principal thing to them. To build up a party so that the members of that party will get everything in sight—that is what political parties are run for.

* * *

The big politicians want everything the party has to give out, either for the personal glory there is in holding a big job, or for the opportunity it gives them to put over things which will help them run their personal affairs. The big men in the trusts and public service corporations want laws which will enable them to run things for their personal advantage, or to get men in office who will think the same as they do on questions affecting the trusts and public service corporations. The little men in the party want the jobs for the money there is in it for them. All hands talk a lot about doing things for the welfare of the people, but that is only bunk to fool the people. Once a political party gets entrenched in power, it boosts the taxes, spends public money recklessly, increases salaries of all the heelers and party workers in sight, and plunders the people right and left through waste, incompetence, mismanagement and extravagance.

The only remedy for this condition is to be found in independence, it is thought. Both the political parties hate political independence. The Republican party just now is telling the women of the country that they must not be independent in politics but must live or with one party or the other. The men at the top, whether they are Republican bosses or Democratic bosses, know that both political parties will combine whenever it will help their schemes. If they can keep the people lined up with one party or the other they know they will be safe. Independent voters who do a little thinking on their own account of whom the political gangs are afraid. So long as the voters will permit themselves to be led by the nose by one party or the other the trusts and public service corporations and the big politicians who fatten on the public, will feel secure.

* * *

There is only one day in the year on which public wrongs can be righted. That day is election day. When the trusts and public service corporations and the politicians once get their kind of people in power, they are secure for a time. The people may complain about high taxes and about getting nothing in return for the money they pay in taxes, but their hollerings do no good. They have elected that sort of officials and they must put up with the result of their votes.

* * *

The people have the remedy for these evils in their own hands. But so long as they permit the politicians to lead them up to the ballot box and tell them how they must vote, they must expect the government will be run for the benefit of the politicians and the tax eaters and not for the benefit of the people who pay the bills.

AN ORDINANCE PROVIDING FOR THE LAYING OF A STORM SEWER IN MAPLE AVENUE, EXTENDING FROM IRVING PLACE, NORTHWARDLY TO THE SHREWSBURY RIVER IN THE BOROUGH OF RED BANK, COUNTY OF MONMOUTH AND STATE OF NEW JERSEY, THE SAME TO BE CONSTRUCTED BY THE STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF NEW JERSEY AT A COST NOT TO EXCEED THIRTY THOUSAND DOLLARS, ONE-HALF OF WHICH TO BE PAID BY THE BOROUGH OF RED BANK.

BE IT ORDAINED by the Mayor and Council of the Borough of Red Bank:

1. That a storm sewer with the necessary connections therefor be constructed in Maple avenue, extending from Irving place northwardly to Waverly place, then to Leroy place, then to Reckless place, then to Peters place, then to Monmouth street, then to the Shrewsbury river.

2. That the pipes required in the construction of said storm sewer shall be of concrete or vitrified pipe, and of the following sizes:

From Irving place to Waverly place, fifteen inches.

From Waverly place to Leroy place, eighteen inches.

From Leroy place to Reckless place, twenty-four inches.

From Reckless place to Peters place, thirty inches.

From Peters place to Monmouth street, thirty inches.

From Monmouth street to Shrewsbury river, forty-two inches.

3. That the State Highway Commission of the State of New Jersey shall construct said storm sewer as aforesaid, the cost thereof not to exceed thirty thousand dollars, one-half of which sum shall be paid by the Borough of Red Bank, and the other half by the said State Highway Commission of the State of New Jersey, and the sum of fifteen thousand dollars representing the share of said Borough is hereby appropriated for the aforesaid purposes. The moneys to be paid by the said Borough to be paid as the work progresses upon the certificate of the Borough Engineer.

4. That a promissory note in the sum of fifteen thousand dollars is hereby authorized to be issued to meet the cost of said improvements, which said note shall bear interest not exceeding six per centum per annum for the term of six years, payable at the Second National Bank of Red Bank, New Jersey, with the option on the part of the maker to redeem the same, or any part thereof, at any time before the date of maturity, and that a sum not less than two thousand five hundred dollars ($2,500) shall be included in the yearly budget of the Borough to be applied in payment of said note and interest thereon.

5. That the probable period of usefulness of said improvement is thirty years; that the annual assessed valuation of the taxable real property, including improvements, of the Borough of Red Bank computed as required by law is $7,031,807, 1921.

That the net debt of the municipality, computed as required by law is $314,331.87. That the annual debt statement has been made and filed with the Borough Clerk as required by law as well as a supplemental debt statement.

Said note shall be issued and shall so recite, pursuant to an act entitled "An Act to Authorize and Regulate the Issuance of Bonds and other Obligations, and the Incurring of Indebtedness by County, City, Borough, Village, Town, Township, or any Municipality Governed by an Improvement Commission," approved March 28, 1916, and the acts amendatory thereof and supplementary thereto.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Education of the Township of Atlantic, for the erection and completion of a school building to be erected at Colt's Neck, New Jersey.

Bids will be made out on forms supplied for that purpose and shall be delivered to the Clerk of the Board (G. S. P. Hunt) at his residence, Colt's Neck, New Jersey, or presented in person at the meeting to be held in the Town Hall, Friday, February 3rd, at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon, at Colt's Neck, N. J.

All work is to be done in accordance with plans and specifications prepared for the same by John Noble Pierson and Son, architects and engineers, 175 Smith street, Perth Amboy, N. J.

The names of the proposed subcontractors shall accompany the bids made out on blanks provided for that purpose, shall be enclosed in the proper envelopes. No bid will be considered complete without the list of subcontractors.

For the convenience and use of intending bidders plans will be loaned to them on and after January 18th, upon a deposit of cash or certified check in the amount of $20. Plans are to be obtained from the architects at their office, Perth Amboy, N. J. Deposit will be returned when the plans are returned.

Plans will be issued until supply is exhausted but at all times a set of plans and specifications will be open for inspection at the office of the architects. Contractors who are unable to obtain a set of plans and specifications may avail themselves of the privilege of estimating on these plans and specifications during business hours on any business day.

Before cash or certified check is returned a forfeit of 50% of the deposit will be required of any bidder who fails to submit an estimate after receiving the plans and specifications for that purpose.

Bids shall be rendered separately for any or all branches as follows:

General Construction—Comprising all masonry, carpentry, steel and iron, roofing and sheet metal and painting work.

Heating and Ventilating.

Plumbing Work.

Electric Work.

Each bid shall be accompanied by a certified check upon a national or state bank, drawn to the order of the Board of Education of the Township of Atlantic in the various amounts as follows:

General construction, $750; heating and ventilating, $350; plumbing, $100; electric, $75; binding the successful bidder to execute the contract if awarded to him. The successful bidder will be required to furnish a satisfactory bond in the full amount of the contract price.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

CERTIFICATE OF DISSOLUTION.

TO ALL WHOM THESE PRESENTS MAY COME, GREETING:—

WHEREAS, It appears to my satisfaction, by duly authenticated record of the proceedings for the voluntary dissolution thereof by the unanimous consent of all the stockholders, deposited in my office, that Original Ice Company, a corporation of this State, whose principal office is situated at Port Monmouth, in the County of Monmouth, State of New Jersey, (Benjamin F. Allen being the agent therein and in charge thereof, upon whom process may be served), has complied with the requirements of "An Act concerning corporations (Revision of 1896)," preliminary to the issuing of this Certificate of Dissolution.

Now, therefore, I, Thomas F. Martin, Secretary of the State of New Jersey, do hereby certify that the said corporation did, on the thirty-first day of December, 1921, file in my office a duly executed and attested consent in writing to the dissolution of said corporation, executed by all the stockholders thereof, which said consent and the record of the proceedings aforesaid are now on file in my said office as provided by law.

In testimony whereof, I have hereto set my hand and affixed my official seal, at Trenton, this thirty-first day of December, A. D. one thousand, nine hundred and twenty-one.

Your Physician May Write for You a Very Important Prescription

Occasionally the doctor prescribes for medicines that are more than ordinary; sometimes the compounding of these require more than ordinary skill.

Some unusual prescriptions require more than the average facilities.

The constant daily flow of prescriptions to the Prescription Department of this established house—prescriptions that are written by local physicians and also by many located miles away—insures expert compounding, fresh and active medicines, systematic punctuality and genuine service by expert, sober, experienced, registered pharmacists—men who have given years of thought and study to the very smallest details of Prescription Work, and we charge no more for this high grade, dependable service than the ordinary drug stores.

Also remember that this store is never left in charge of inexperienced men or boys to save overhead expenses. I have five registered men and some of them are in attendance day and night.

BRIEF ITEMS OF NEWS.

Clarence Hulse of Glendola ran his automobile into a gasoline tank at Farmingdale last week. He broke the tank to pieces, fragments of which were thrown nearly 150 feet. Hulse is said to have been running his machine very recklessly. His automobile was badly damaged.

A Home for a Policeman's Widow.

The fund for the relief of the widow of Policeman Emmons, who killed by a negro at Long Branch a few weeks ago, has become large enough to buy the home where she lives and this property has been turned over to her free and clear of debt. Contributions still continue and it is expected they will soon be large enough to pay all other indebtedness, including the funeral expenses.

Asbury Park's Swans.

A complaint has been made to the Asbury Park commissioners that the swans owned by that city are not properly cared for. One swan recently died and it was charged that it died from lack of care. The commissioners say that people feed the swans improper food and that the death of the swan which died was due to unfit food given to the swan by sympathetic people.

Household Doubly Afflicted.

Mrs. John Stricklin of Adelphia recently slipped and fell while at work in her home and she was laid up for a number of days. Gene Bogar, who had been living with Mr. and Mrs. Stricklin, was taken to a Trenton hospital where new skin was grafted on his arm on account of a burn which he suffered about two weeks ago.

Injured by a Chicken.

Annie Purnell of Farmingdale was feeding her chickens about two weeks ago when one of the chickens pecked her on the hand. She gave no attention to the slight wound but within a few days blood poisoning developed and for a time her condition was quite serious. She is now rapidly improving.

Died After Two Amputations.

Mrs. Catherine Conover, wife of Clayton Conover of Asbury Park, died at the Spring Lake hospital ten days ago from gangrene. Mrs. Conover was 75 years old. Both legs had been amputated in an effort to stop the spread of the disease. The first amputation was made about five years ago.

Matawan Pupils Give a Play.

The senior class of the Matawan high school gave the play of "Miss Molly" to a large audience last week. About $200 was cleared. The money will go into the class treasury and will be used to help pay the cost of a trip to Washington to be made by the class at the end of the school year.

Must Keep Out of the County.

May Chatfield, who had previously been charged with keeping a disorderly house at Asbury Park, pleaded guilty to the same charge last week. She was paroled for three years but if she returns to Monmouth county it will be regarded as a violation of her parole and she will be sent to jail.

Two Accidents at a School.

Last Thursday Vera Marten, a girl at the Bradley Beach school, ran a broken needle into her finger while operating a sewing machine in the sewing class. The same day Arthur Kelly, a colored boy attending the same school, was tripped up by some other boys and his leg was broken.

On a Texan Trip.

Joseph Rogers, Jr., and William E. Matthews of Farmingdale are on a trip to San Antonio, Texas. They will stop at many places along the route. At Hot Springs, Arkansas, Mr. Matthews will undergo treatment for rheumatism, with which he has suffered for several months.

Police Captain Retired.

Capt. Jacob R. Borden, Asbury Park's oldest police officer, retired last week. He had been in service since April, 1877. He was an exempt fireman and had served in various public capacities at Asbury Park. He will receive half-pay for the rest of his life.

Girl Scouts Visit New York.

Mrs. George R. Poole and Ethel Hance of Belmar took the girl scouts of that place to New York on a recent trip. They visited Grant's tomb, the museum of art, saw a performance at the Hippodrome and had a fine dinner. Twelve girls were in the party.

Laid up with Blood Poisoning.

William M. Schanck, a grocer of Freehold, has been laid up two weeks with blood poisoning in his arm. The infection came from a slight scratch on his finger. For a time Mr. Schanck's recovery was doubtful and two doctors were in attendance on him.

Disorderly House Raided.

A disorderly house kept by a colored woman at Asbury Park was raided last week by the police. The woman proprietor was fined $50. One of the inmates was fined $10 as were also two Fort Hancock soldiers, who were found in the house.

Bakery Business Sold.

J. B. Doscher and P. Rauch of Mineola, Long Island, have bought the bakery business of Charles Wagner of Freehold. Mr. Wagner has conducted the business two years and he will now move back to Newark, where he formerly lived.

New Borough Proposal.

The village or settlement of Interlaken, one of the small sections of Ocean township, will apply to the legislature this year for a borough charter in order to cut loose from the rest of Ocean township and establish its own government.

Charged with Embezzlement.

Leslie VanPelt of Keansburg was arrested at Perth Amboy last week on a charge of embezzlement. It is claimed that he had made no accounting of $300 belonging to the Independent fire company of Keansburg.

A Young Offender.

Frederick Buckingham, a fifteen-year-old boy of West Ocean Grove, has been arrested on charges of breaking into stores and stealing. Buckingham has been arrested seven times for various offenses.

Furniture Destroyed.

A truck load of furniture, which was being taken from New York to Bradley Beach as the housekeeping outfit of a newly-married couple, caught fire while on the road and the furniture was destroyed.

WOMEN GIVE OUT

Housework is hard enough when healthy. Every Red Bank woman who is having backache, blue and nervous spells, dizzy headaches and kidney or bladder troubles, should be glad to heed this Red Bank woman's experience:

Mrs. Charles Clark, Harrison avenue, says: "I was troubled with severe pains in the small of my back, especially after taking cold or doing a hard day's work. In the evening I would have sharp pains across my back when I would be miserable. I had dizzy spells, too. I was troubled in this way for a long time when a member of the family told me of the good Doan's Kidney Pills had done, so I bought a box. They soon relieved me of all symptoms and after using five boxes I was in good condition again. I used Doan's whenever I felt an attack of this kind coming on and they worked wonders." (Statement given June 13, 1916.)

On June 23, 1920, Mrs. Clark added "Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of kidney complaint and I have had no return of the trouble. I always recommend Doan's, for I know they are just as represented."

A Dry Cellar—Yet a Cool One

A warm cellar is a poor storehouse. That's why vegetables and other foodstuffs cannot usually be kept in the basements of homes heated by the old style pipe furnaces, or the more costly systems. The

Home Ventilator Furnace

The Original PATENTED Pipeless Model
Manufactured only by the HOMER FURNACE CO., Homer, Mich.

will radiate enough heat to keep the cellar free from dampness, but will not detract from its natural coolness. Vegetables can be stored with perfect safety.

Heat is not wasted with the "Home Ventilator." The scientific principle of design and operation sends all heat units through the combination hot- and cold-air register, and from there it is evenly distributed throughout the house.

Clean, simple and safe. Doesn't waste space and doesn't necessitate a big installation cost. We can equip your residence with a "Home Ventilator" in a few hours, for a little more than you would pay for a good base burner. Ask us for more information.

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Sedan $660
F. O. B. Detroit
With Starter and demountable Rims

Genuine Common Sense

Many Ford owners can afford to own and operate any car they may choose, but they prefer a Ford "because it is a Ford."

For "because it is a Ford" means dependability, ease of operation, efficiency—and it means sure, quick transportation.

And "because it is a Ford" means good taste, pride of ownership and genuine Common Sense.

The Ford Sedan, a closed car of distinction, beauty and convenience, is the ideal all year 'round car, for pleasure or business—for the farm, town or city. It gives you all that any car can give at a much lower cost for operation and maintenance.

Ford Cars of all types are in great demand, so place your order at once if you wish to avoid delay in delivery.

Health turns the Clock Backward

Pushing Time Back at the Age of Fifty

WEEKLY HEALTH TALK No. 30

By DRS. A. M. & N. C. ENGLERT, Chiropractors

Along about the time a man turns the corner of age fifty he is apt to get something wrong. It may be he finds he cant get an insurance policy, or that he is becoming tired too easily, or cannot think consecutively.

Some call it high blood pressure, some call it hardening of the arteries, some refer to it as kidney disease. It is caused by pressure upon spinal nerves, and it is corrected by chiropractic spinal adjustments removing this causative pressure. High blood pressure comes to men or women under forty, but not so often. When the kidneys properly filter the Blood, the deposit on the artery walls which stiffens then and causes high blood pressure, is carried off, and eliminated through the kidneys.

More Vitamines in Castles Ice Cream

Because It Is Heathized

Newspapers and magazines have been full of articles about vitamines—those body building elements of food which scientists have proved are absolutely essential to life and health.

So when we tell you that CASTLES HEATHIZED ICE CREAM is highest in vitamines we are giving you information that you will be able to appreciate as valuable news.

WHAT SCIENCE HAS DISCOVERED.

Science has discovered that the agitation of milk and cream in air destroys vitamines. On the other hand science has discovered that agitating milk and cream in the pure, sterile, germ-free atmosphere used in making CASTLES HEATHIZED ICE CREAM preserves these growth-promoting vitamines.

When ice cream is made by agitating a mix of cream, sugar, flavoring, etc., in air, paddles beat the air into the mix which process, science proves, destroys vitamines.

CASTLES HEATHIZED ICE CREAM is made by driving the air out of the freezer and replacing it with a pure, clean, sterile and germless atmosphere which science has shown preserves the vitamines. So CASTLES HEATHIZED ICE CREAM is infinitely purer and contains more vitamines than ice cream made in air.

ASK YOUR DOCTOR.

In recent months Scientific Journals have contained articles pointing out how destructive ordinary air is to vitamines. Doctors readily understand these facts.

So CASTLES HEATHIZED ICE CREAM is the ice cream you should eat, for we control the exclusive rights to manufacture Heathized Ice Cream in New Jersey.

When you buy ice cream, whether you order a dish at the nearby soda fountain, or a brick or carton to take home, be sure that it is CASTLES. If it isn't CASTLES, it isn't Heathized.

The Embalmer and Sanitarian

The prime essential in any calling is service. And service is broad. It transcends the idea of pecuniary gain or reward. The professional man, be he lawyer, minister, or physician who permits the commercial to dominate is not fulfilling his true mission.

This is no less true of the funeral director. In no other profession, perhaps, has the progressive spirit been more active. Few realize how large a part the modern undertaker has played in the eradication of disease.

The embalmer and sanitarian has kept pace with the progress made in all branches of medical and surgical science. His service to the community is now recognized by health-governing bodies in all sections of the country.

The funeral director of today is far in advance of his predecessor of a generation ago. Intelligent service and a thorough knowledge of the art and science of caring for the human dead have made the modern funeral director an important factor in the work of lessening mortality.

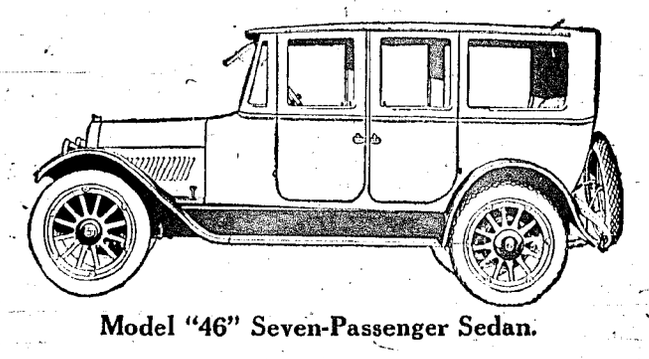
Oldsmobile



Model "46" Seven-Passenger Sedan.

A New Low Price for Eight-Cylinder Luxury

An unmistakable air of character dignifies this seven-passenger sedan.

Even a casual glance reveals qualities of luxury and comfort that are comparable only with cars far costlier.

Observers admire its unobtrusive elegance; owners praise its enduring service.

They know that its steady stream of power makes distances swiftly, smoothly, dependably, and at an expense agreeably small.

They know its quick response to every driving emergency; and that they can ride its smoothly balanced chassis for hours without sense of strain or fatigue.

The Oldsmobile dealer will be only too happy to show you why this sedan, at a moderate investment, satisfies your desire to own a dependable, roomy motor-coach of more than ordinary distinction.

Of course, if your family requirements are better suited by a smaller car, you will find these same characteristics of riding comfort in the Model "47" five-passenger sedan or four-passenger coupe.

Even in this market of lower prices, you will find nothing to compare with these new low prices for eight-cylinder luxury. Wrte for literature.

RUMSON PLACES SOLD.

NEW OWNER FOR THE JOSE DE NAVARRO HOMESTEAD.

It Was Bought Last Week by A. Karagheusian of New York City for $82,000—The Mrs. Anna M. DeMott Property Also Sold.

The old Navarro homestead on the Rumson road has been sold by William H. Hintelmann of Rumson to A. Karagheusian of New York for $82,000. The property was bought from Jose de Navarro by Mrs. George H. Chatillon in 1897. It has a frontage of 794 feet on the Rumson road and 793 feet on Bellevue avenue. The grounds comprise 13¼ acres. The main residence contains two living rooms, billiard room, reception hall, dining room, butler's pantry, kitchen, maids' dining room, eleven masters' bedrooms with six bathrooms, and six servants' rooms with bath. The laundry is in a building detached from the main residence and three rooms and a bathroom are on the second floor of this building. On the place is a large stable garage with room for ten automobiles and stalls for several horses. There is also a gardener's dwelling of seven rooms and bathroom. Other buildings include a farm barn, ice house, greenhouse and poultry houses. The property is a very handsome one and has magnificent shade trees, shrubbery and lawns. The part of the place used as a farm and garden is intensively cultivated. The house is beautifully furnished and all of the furniture is included in the sale. At the time Mr. Navarro sold the property to Mrs. Chatillon he owned the entire block bounded by the Rumson road, Bellevue avenue, Buena Vista avenue and Ridge road. Jacob H. Schiff bought the Buena Vista avenue and Rumson road corner of the block, Solomon Loch bought the Buena Vista avenue and Ridge road corner, and Edward D. Adams bought the Bellevue avenue and Ridge road corner.

Mr. Hintelmann has also sold the Mrs. Anna M. DeMott property on the Rumson road. This property was bought by Louis D. Compson of New York. It has a frontage of 392 feet on the Rumson road and a frontage of 361 feet on Navesink avenue. It contains about 3½ acres. A large frame residence is on the property, containing living room, reception hall, dining room, pantry, kitchen and laundry, five master bedrooms, four servants' rooms and four bathrooms. The furniture in the house was included in the sale and the price paid was $38,000. Mrs. DeMott bought the original property, containing seven acres, from the Seabury Tredwell estate in 1893. She built two houses on the property that year, one fronting on the Rumson road and the other fronting on Navesink avenue. She retains the Navesink avenue house and land, containing 3½ acres, and will continue to live there. There is a double garage on the Navesink avenue property and Mr. Compson has leased half of this garage for the coming five years.

RED BANK'S ICE CARNIVAL.

It Will Be Held Tomorrow and Friday on the Shrewsbury River.

The cold spell of the past few days has put the ice on the Shrewsbury river in fine condition for the carnival tomorrow and Friday. Mild weather prevented the holding of the carnival on Thursday and Friday of last week. The program as printed in last week's Register will be carried out. Iceboat races will be held tomorrow and the skating races will take place Friday. A number of good prizes have been donated for the contests. Entries for the skating races will close at noon Friday with George W. Bray, who is chairman of the carnival committee. Plans are well under way for a bigger carnival to be held on Monday, February 13th, when the skating races will be under the direction of the Middle Atlantic skating association.

WON PRIZES AT JUDGING.

Agricultural Pupils at Leonardo Show Their Knowledge of Farming.

Eight pupils of the agricultural school at Leonardo made a fine showing in judging contests at the New Jersey farmers' exhibition at Trenton last week. They won a second prize of a cup in the potato judging contest, a third prize of a dust sprayer in the cattle judging contest, $10 worth of garden seeds as third prize in the corn judging contest, and a book on gardening for individual merit. The boys are all in the first year of high school work and they were competing against the representatives of twenty of the large schools in the state. Most of the students of the other schools are taking advanced agricultural courses. The Leonardo judging teams comprised John Okalew, Trevonian Crawford, Arthur Decker, Edward Bennett, Matthew Schmidt, Howard Chamberlain, Daniel Hendrickson and Edward Bennett. Chamberlain judged in two contests. The boys, while at Trenton, slept on army cots in the gymnasium of the normal school. Ernest E. Knudson is the agricultural teacher at Leonardo.

MEMORIAL AT EATONTOWN.

Firemen Buy a Monument in Memory of World War Veterans.

The Eatontown firemen have placed an order with E. H. Wharton, who represents L. L. Manning & Son of Plainfield, for a monument in memory of Eatontown young men who served in the world war. The monument will be placed on the lawn in front of the new town hall and municipal building. It will be of light Barre granite and will be a trifle more than thirteen feet high. Part of the monument will be a statue of a soldier seven feet high. There will be two tablets on the monument. One will give the names of Eatontowners who served in the army and the other will announce that the monument is given by the firemen. Plans are being made to unveil the monument on Memorial day. The same firm which is making this monument has placed similar memorials in a number of towns in the county, among them being Belford, Little Silver, Keyport and Tennent.

ASBURY'S BUSINESS SHOW.

A Very Large Attendance at the Opening Nights of the Display.

The Asbury Park business men's show, which started on Monday and which will continue throughout the week, has attracted very large crowds during the two days the show has been open. The show was opened by an aerial stunt with a display of fireworks from the airship and the beach front was thronged for the sight. The exhibits in the casino, where 150 business men are making their displays, attracted a great number of visitors and purchasers. The women were particularly attracted by new styles of clothes, displayed on good-looking living models on a stage specially constructed for that purpose.

Dancing is held each evening and on Friday night a children's ballet and solo dancing will be given by pupils of one of the Asbury Park dancing schools. The show will be followed by ten weeks of special sales in the Asbury Park stores.

TWO DANCES AT EATONTOWN.

Women's Club Will Held Them to Buy Piano for Municipal Building.

Two dances will be held this week in the municipal building at Eatontown to pay for a piano for that building. These two functions will be given by the women's community club and they will be in charge of a committee made up of the chairmen of the various departments of the club. One dance will be held Friday night and will be a subscription invitation dance. A five-piece orchestra will render music. The other dance will be for children and will be held Saturday afternoon from half-past two o'clock until five o'clock. The dance committee members are Miss Maud C. Westbrook, Mrs. George Ford Morris, Mrs. F. Stanley Higginson, Mrs. Fred Backus, Mrs. L. D. Seeley, Miss Lida Wolcott and Miss Mary Nivison.

DOINGS OF THE LIONS.

Road Program, Camp Vail and Taxes Talked About at Luncheon.

CAUGHT IN AN ORCHARD.

ANDREW JACKSON BENNETT AND HIS SONS JAILED.

Their Neighbor, Charles T. Leonard, Claims That They Maliciously Destroyed His Apple Trees—Arrests Made by Detective Rue.

Charged with maliciously destroying trees, Andrew Jackson Bennett of Lincroft and his sons Winfield and Lester Bennett were arrested Monday night in Charles T. Leonard's orchard. The Bennetts live near Mr. Leonard. Detective J. B. Rue and other officers from the prosecutor's office made the arrests. They say they heard tree branches being broken off and otherwise damaged. A warrant is out for the arrest of Benjamin Bennett, who is alleged to have been with the other Bennetts. He is a brother of Andrew Jackson Bennett. He ran away from his companions when the arrests were made, the detectives say.

The three Bennetts who were arrested had a hearing before Justice Edward W. Wise. They claimed they were going raccoon hunting and passed through Mr. Leonard's orchard. They said they did not intentionally damage any trees. About three weeks ago 35 young apple trees on Mr. Leonard's farm were cut down or otherwise ruined by vandals. The Bennetts said they were not guilty of this. Justice Wise held each of the Bennetts in $1,000 bail for the action of the grand jury. They were unable to get bondsmen and were sent to the county jail.

Last summer Mr. Leonard had some of the members of the Bennett family arrested on a charge of stealing potatoes. On that occasion the Bennetts were found not guilty. Mr. Leonard says they harbor a grudge against him.

JITNEYS AT FAIR HAVEN.

They Will Be Allowed There Hereafter—Better Street Lights.

Jitneys will hereafter be permitted to run in and through Fair Haven. Last year the trolley company asked that jitneys be restrained from competing with the trolley and a jitney ordinance was passed. The trolley company promised better service but there was no improvement and the jitney ordinances is now to be repealed. This was decided on by the borough council last night. Many residents of Fair Haven had asked for the return of jitney service.

Lake avenue residents want that street improved and the Fair Haven governing board decided to have this done as soon as the weather becomes settled in the spring. A system of garbage collection has been asked for and this work may also be undertaken in the spring.

The present incandescent street lights of 32-candle power are to be replaced by lights of sixty-candle power. Fair Haven has at present 86 street lights.

Under the proposed budget in Fair Haven the borough will raise a little over $12,000 by taxation this year to run the borough. The salary of the collector has been raised from $225 to $300 per year and the salary of the borough clerk has been raised to the same figure. A steel filing cabinet will be bought for the use of the borough clerk and the board of health.

MANY AT POLICEMEN'S BALL.

Profits Amounted to $1,000—Dancer Arrested and Fined $5.

Over 450 persons attended the ball given by the patrolmen's benevolent association of Red Bank last Wednesday night at St. James's hall. The profits amounted to $1,000. The hall was decorated with American flags and palms and the music was furnished by Hackett's orchestra. James Power sold sandwiches, cake and coffee.

John Brasch of Oakland street was arrested at the ball on a charge of disorderly conduct after a tussle with two policemen. He was locked up over night. The next morning he was fined $5 by Recorder William J. Poulson.

Highlands Hotel Searched.

VETERAN SAWYER DEAD.

ASHER H. CRAWFORD PASSED AWAY LAST WEEK.

For 45 Years He Was Employed in the Saw Mill of the Late Frank E. Hyer of Colt's Neck—This was the Only Job He Had All His Life.

Asher H. Crawford of Colt's Neck died Sunday of last week of Bright's disease, after a sickness of three years. He was born 67 years ago at Marlboro and was a son of the late James Crawford, who for a number of years was a shoemaker at Colt's Neck.

Asher Crawford had lived at Colt's Neck since he was a young man. For 45 years he was a sawyer at Frank E. Heyer's saw mill. This was the only job he had during his whole life save for a few months when he worked in a blacksmith shop at Matawan. He had a wide circle of friends and acquaintances and by all who knew him he was respected for his honesty and neighborly traits.

When he was a young man Mr. Crawford was noted for his strength and for his skill as a sawyer. He could handle logs which would tax the strength of two ordinary men. Although he never held office, Mr. Crawford was quite active in Atlantic township politics in his younger days. He was a Democrat. He is survived by a wife, whose maiden name was Susan Cooney. She is a daughter of the late John Cooney. Mr. Crawford leaves a son, Frank Crawford, who lives at home. He also leaves a brother, Charles Crawford of Middletown.

The funeral was held Wednesday morning at St. Mary's church at New Monmouth. The church was filled to overflowing and many had to remain in the churchyard. Burial was made in St. Rose of Lima cemetery at Freehold. The bearers were Daniel Sullivan, Charles Ford, Joaquin Lawrence, Garrett W. Buck, Michael Riordan and James Desmond.

MISS MARIA E. DAVIS DEAD.

Former Trained Nurse Passed Away Friday at Trenton.

Miss Maria E. Davis, daughter of T. Leonard Davis of Harding road, died Friday night of consumption at a hospital at Trenton. She was 49 years old and was a trained nurse. She is survived by her parents and by a sister and four brothers. The sister and brothers are Miss Ella Davis and Walter and Arthur Davis of Red Bank, Harry Davis of Oakhurst and Fred Davis of Sayreville. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon at Leonard Davis's and the sermon was preached by Rev. William E. Braisted. Burial was made at Fair View cemetery.

DEATH FROM HEART TROUBLE.

The Wife of Oceanport's Collector Died Last Week.

Mrs. Gertrude Willard Phisterer, wife of Karl J. Phisterer, collector of the borough of Oceanport, died of heart trouble last Wednesday night. Mrs. Phisterer was 47 years old and she leaves a husband and daughter. The daughter is Katharine Willard Phisterer, who graduated from the Red Bank high school last year. Mrs. Phisterer was very active in the affairs of St. James's parish of Long Branch. She was vice president of the parish guild, a member of the parish club, and was interested in the woman's auxiliary and the girls' friendly society.

Death of Highlands Man.

Martin J. Mount of Highlands died from a complication of diseases yesterday after a sickness of three weeks. He was 34 years old and conducted a garage at Highlands. He leaves a widow and three children. He is also survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mount of Highlands. NEW HOUSE AT FAIR HAVEN.

Mrs. Ada Gracey is Building it For Her Own Occupancy.

Mrs. Ada Gracey of Fair Haven is building a house at the corner of Willow street and Kemp avenue at that place for her own occupancy. The house will have seven rooms and a bathroom and will be provided with modern improvements. It will cost about $5,000 and will be completed April 1st. Arthur E. Smith is the contractor. Next spring Mrs. Gracey will build another house on the adjoining lot. The property which Mrs. Gracey now occupies has been sold by Mrs. Lucretia Smith to Charles Taylor for $2,500. Mrs. Gracey has lived in the house nineteen years.

COLT'S NECK FARM SOLD.

HARTSHORNE PLACE BOUGHT BY GEORGE D. SCHENCK.

The Sale Was Made Last Week and the Price was $40,000—Mr. Schenck to Move from Crawford's Corner to the Farm in March.

The Hartshorne farm of 275 acres at Colt's Neck was bought last week by George D. Schenck of Crawford's Corner, near Holmdel, for $40,000. The property is about a mile and a half east of Colt's Neck, on the south side of the county stone road. It is occupied by Jeremiah Tilton. A large house and the usual outbuildings are on the place. They are considerably run down.

Mr. Schenck bought the farm from Mrs. Charles Bennett of Middletown. He expects to move on the place in March. Mr. Tilton has not decided where he will move. For a number of years the land was used as a dairy farm by William Hartshorne, who is now a lawyer at Freehold. He is a brother of Mrs. Bennett.

Mr. Schenck is now living on the Crawford farm at Crawford's Corner. This place will be occupied the coming season by Charles Erwin of Middletown.

ADVERTISER BUILDING SOLD.

It Had Been Used as a Newspaper Office Nearly Fifty Years.

The building at Eatontown which for nearly fifty years was occupied by the Eatontown Advertiser was sold last week to Harris Miller of Eatontown. The building was owned by Mrs. Steen, widow of James Steen. Mr. Steen started the Advertiser about 47 years ago. He was a great believer in the future of Eatontown and the paper was started not to make any money but to help the place. Mr. Steen personally conducted the paper for twenty years or more. When he quit work on the paper, the office and equipment was leased to various persons. William T. Cole of Red Bank, father of Howard Cole, who conducts a printing office on Monmouth street, was the last lessee of the plant. He conducted the paper ten or twelve years, until his death about a year ago. At his death the paper was discontinued. Two or three months ago the paper was revived under the same name but under different ownership.

The sale of the property was made by Jacob Appleby, a real estate agent at Eatontown. The lot is 40x150 feet. Mr. Miller paid $2,500 for the property. He expects to convert the first floor of the building into one or two stores and to change the second floor into apartments.

EAST RED BANK HOUSE SOLD.

New Yorker Buys the John C. Warden Property.

The house on the south side of East Front street, near Throckmorton's gully, owned by John C. Warden, has been sold by Edward S. Allaire to William W. Morrow of New York for $12,500. The lot is 111x125 feet. The house, which is occupied by Mrs. Frank Miller, has eight rooms and two bathrooms. It is equipped with modern improvements. Mr. Morrow bought the house for a summer home. Originally it was a building owned by the late Tylee W. Throckmorton. Subsequently it was converted into a house by Mrs. Edmund W. Throckmorton. Mr. Warden bought it a short time ago.

House Sold at Oceanport.

Frederick Nylander of Arlington has bought the property of the Tabor estate on Wolf Hill avenue at Oceanport for $14,000. The new owner will occupy the house. It has twelve rooms and modern improvements. The property comprises fourteen acres and there are a number of fruit trees on the place.

Bought House as Investment.

Mrs. Alfred Illch of Locust avenue has bought Fred Oakley's double house on the south side of Canal street for $6,500 as an investment. The lot is 88x90 feet. The house has six rooms on each side and it is provided with hot and cold water and gas. William A. Hopping made the sale.

Notice.

January 26th and 27th the Consolidated gas company will put a chemical in the gas, having a very strong garlic odor, for the detection of leaks. TWO KILLED BY AUTOS.

LONG BRANCH MAN AND KEANSBURG WOMAN VICTIMS.

Bert Maher Was Driving a Car When It Hit the Curb and Overturned—Mrs. Mary Oehler Was Struck and Killed While Walking on Street.

Two fatal automobile accidents occurred in Monmouth county on Sunday. Early Sunday morning, about three o'clock, Bert Maher of Long Branch, a young man 23 years old, was driving a car when it struck the curb at Deal. It was going at a fast speed and it bounced up in the air and overturned. Maher was pinned beneath the car when it turned over. Two other young men were in the car but they were only slightly hurt. These young men were Fred Clayton and Harold Adamson of Long Branch. Clayton was flung through the top of the machine when it turned over. Help had to be obtained to lift the car from Maher. He was hurried to the Long Branch hospital, but he was dead when he was examined. He had probably been killed instantly when the car overturned.

Mrs. Mary Oehler of Keansburg, the other victim of an automobile accident on Sunday, was walking along the street at Keansburg with her eight-year-old son on Sunday night when she was struck by an automobile driven by Kenneth Robinson of Keansburg. Her head was cut and her skull fractured, her hips were crushed, her arm and fingers were broken and her entire left side was smashed in. Mrs. Oehler had been employed by Raymond Thorne of Keansburg as housekeeper for the past eighteen months. She was 35 years old. Besides the son mentioned Mrs. Oehler left a daughter fifteen years old. After being struck by the automobile she was taken to the Long Branch hospital, where she died a few hours later.

SHREWSBURY HOUSE SOLD.

The Barlow Place Bought by Harry G. Bray of Eatontown.

Harry G. Bray, who recently sold his farm at Eatontown, has bought Joseph Dickopf's house at Shrewsbury for $11,000. The property is on the west side of the Eatontown road, a short distance south of the village center. The land comprises about an acre of land. The house has ten rooms, two bathrooms and modern improvements. Also on the property are a large stable and a poultry house. Mr. Bray bought the place for his own occupancy. At present the house is vacant. Frequently it is called the Barlow house on account of its having been owned and occupied a number of years by George W. Barlow, who now lives at New York.

EAST RED BANK HOUSE SOLD.

Property on Washington Street Bought by a Brooklyn Woman.

Mrs. Alice Fields and Mrs. Amanda Doughty have sold the house which they occupy on the east side of Washington street to Mrs. Mary Murphy of Brooklyn, who bought it for her own use. The price was $6,000 and the sale was made by Henry F. Hylin. The lot is 40x122 feet. The house has six rooms and a bathroom and is provided with modern improvements. The new owner will get possession April 1st.

NEW OWNER FOR HOUSES.

Charles Campbell Sells Property and Will Move to Asbury Park.

Charles Campbell has sold his house on the south side of Tinton avenue at Eatontown to Claude L. Rivenburgh of Deal Beach, who will move into the house in April. The price was $8,500. The house has seven rooms and a bathroom and modern improvements. A garage and barn are on the place. Mr. Campbell, who is a township committeeman of Eatontown township, expects to move to Asbury Park.

Lincroft Farm Sold.

Anton Laubmeister of Navesink has bought James G. Conover's farm near Lincroft for $2,700. The property is on both sides of the Everett road and it is about a mile north of Lincroft. No buildings are on the place but Mr. Laubmeister will build a house for his own occupancy. He is a poultry farmer.

Extending the State Highway.

Plans are under way for extending the state highway from the state road near Eatontown through Oceanport to Shadow Lawn and from Shadow Lawn to Deal. It is hoped to construct the road from curb to curb for the most part of the way, through the co-operation of the local authorities.

A GENEROUS NEIGHBOR.

No Tramp Was Ever Sent From His Door Empty-Handed.

At a banquet recently William F. McCombs told of a conversation in a club in which several philanthropic personages were mentioned and lauded to the skies. The conversation had gone to some length, Mr. McCombs said, when a man who was sitting in a corner arose with a merry smile flitting over his features and broke into the gabfest.

"Your philanthropists are all right," he remarked, "but I think it is only just that my next-door neighbor should be included in the kindly disposed bunch."

"We are willing to add him to the list," responded one of the others, "but is he really so generously inclined?"

"Well, I should say that he is," was the emphatic declaration of the first. "Dozens of tramps hammer at his back door and I have never known him to send one away empty-handed."

"You don't mean it?" returned the second a trifle incredulously.

"That's right," rejoined the first; "he always gives them a letter of introduction to me."

A Misleading Sign.

A young man was walking through a wood with a gun over his shoulder and his bag full of game which he had shot. He was not satisfied with what he had and was looking for more, when an excited man with a large tin badge on which was inscribed the one word "Sheriff," came running up to him and demanded: "Haven't you seen the signs which I put up on the trees in this woods?"

"Oh, yes, I saw them," answered the young man; "they said 'No hunting,' but I found some."

His Friend Would Not Object.

"No, sir," thundered the hotel clerk, "you can't bring your friend in here. This is a temperance hotel."

"Oh, well," replied the man, "he's too drunk to care."

How Lila Met Harry

By JESSIE DOUGLAS.

© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"I know you'll like Harry," Mrs. Craig said, leaning back on the chaise longue and passing her hand wearily across her forehead. "He's thirty-five, has enough money, good habits and a really remarkable taste in old china."

Lila Gilbert answered, "Yes," doubtfully.

She had heard nothing except Harry and Harry's eligibility during her week-end at Mrs. Craig's. She had come to hate his very name.

"I suppose he doesn't even smoke?" she asked a bit scornfully.

"Look here, my dear!" Mrs. Craig sat up straight for a moment and spoke forcefully and to the point, "I like you and I want you to be happy! I know what kind of life you lead in that one wretched room, going out for your meals every day of your life. I know you launder your waists and paste your handkerchiefs to the mirror and color your last year's straw instead of buying a new one.

"I know because I did it once myself. You've never said anything, but I can imagine just what kind of man old Mr. Hemingway is to work for—and here you have a perfectly good chance to say good-by to all that, and you're going to let it slip!"

Lila reddened perceptibly and opened her mouth to speak, but Mrs. Craig went on quickly.

"You may be younger, but you look twenty-seven, and yet you have all the illusions of youth!"

A faint smiled curved Lila's lips, "I'm twenty-nine and not an illusion left—"

"There—I've been a beast and I'm sorry," Mrs. Craig went on, sitting up and patting Lila's arm. That's the danger of red hair—you will say things you think in spite of years of social training. I want to tell you something else, too. I think you're sweet. You are too sweet to go on working your life out and pretending that you're happy—"

She stopped, for Lila's eyes looked perilously bright and her lower lip was caught between her teeth.

"The very first time I came into Hemingway's office and saw you and you were so dear, to me, I thought you were rare. I'm going to tell you a little secret. When I married Robert I promised myself the satisfaction of doing eccentric things if I chose, and one of these was to make friends where and how I wished."

She leaned her head back against her cushions and lifted a ringed white hand to her temple. "And now as I told you, I'm going to ask to be excused. Lost sleep must be made up, and I've had two late nights."

Lila went across to her own charming room that overlooked the gardens. Nothing was quite real to her yet; it was as though she had unexpectedly stepped on to the stage and this was one of those luxurious scenes in the first act.

She leaned her hot cheeks against the window pane and looked down across the sweep of lawns to the Italian pergola and the terraced garden beyond.

She ought to begin to dress now for dinner.

"I know he'll hate me," Lila thought, looking pensively in the mirror at herself. "I'm not pretty—only at times."

She studied her face with the dark sweet eyes and level line of brow, the white forehead, the dusky hair. She could see nothing to allure in it, for she saw it in repose, without the sparkle of animation, the sweetness of the smile, nor did she hear the sweet, deep tones of her own voice as others heard them.

"Excuse me, mademoiselle," a lavender clad maid said, "but madame has retired and asks that you will take her place at dinner."

Lila, alone, felt a moment of panic. "To be responsible for Harry's entertainment!" she shivered at the thought. She was shy anyway, and the idea of sitting with him at that round table, while the butler moved noiselessly behind them, was terribly painful.

"And I know Mrs. Craig has talked to him as much about me as she has talked to me about him!" she groaned.

"Ah, Miss Gilbert. Anne told me I was to have this pleasure!"

Lila bowed, seeing in one glance that "Harry" was a fat dumpling of a man with a shining bald head and small blue eyes behind thick glasses.

He spoke in a hurried tone and chuckled occasionally at remarks that meant nothing to Lila. But she found herself seated opposite him under the light of shaded candles with great yellow roses separating them, while a silent stepping butler served them perfectly.

This was Harry! She didn't like anything about him. His ridiculous way of talking, his way of tasting his food before he ate it, his chuckle, his peculiar way of staring at her through those glasses that made his eyes so bulging.

Harry didn't seem to find her interesting.

When after dinner she stole out on the terrace a moment to find herself free for the time being, she gave a sigh of relief; the sky was embroidered with silver stars; the ghostly light of the moon gave a fairy-like aspect to the world.

She walked on and on—farther away from Harry—until stopping in a graveled path she heard a car drive up.

It swept past down the bend of the road to the garage. A moment later, it seemed, the chauffeur in a cap pulled down over his eyes walked slowly back.

He pulled off his cap and said politely, "Good-evening," and then turned as Lila gave a little cry of discomfort as her dress caught in the thorns of a climbing rose.

"There," he said, "now you are free."

His voice was pleasant, deep and rich, and Lila, aware that he was the chauffeur, yet found him more attractive than the rich man back in the house. She walked slowly along beside him.

"I think you're new here?" he asked.

She knew in a moment that he fancied her one of the maids.

"Yes," she hesitated.

"They don't know what living is back there, do they?" he suddenly asked vehemently. "Eating rich foods, sitting in rooms when one can be free and have the whole world for a hunting ground!"

"Can one?" she asked wistfully.

"Yes, if they don't catch you and marry you to some wretched little husband hunter," he growled.

Lila laughed. The man turned swiftly and looked at her face illumined by the moonlight, at the line of her throat and her dark sweet eyes.

"Are they trying to do that to you, too?" she whispered. "I thought they only did that to girls."

The moon rising high flooded the lawns with silver and showed each other their faces. The man could not seem to tear his eyes away. Lila looking at him swiftly thought that he looked strong and fine and clean—not like Harry in there who was so eligible. And then before she turned her face away she said, "Why are you so unhappy?"

He caught himself up with, "I'm sorry. Forgive me, but there was something in your eyes that told me you were lonely, too."

They wandered down to the terraced garden, and Lila in the witchery of the silvery night knew that she would be sorry later, but she stole this one hour to feel. Perhaps he was only a chauffeur, but his voice was beautiful and he talked well and told of places where he had been until the world spread out like some warm-colored picture before her eyes.

"Now tell me about yourself," he begged.

But Lila, shaking off the spell, knew that her hour of enchantment was over.

"At least you'll tell me your name. I've always thought that barriers were ridiculous when one finds a real person. Nothing else matters," he said.

"Lila," she said gently.

They walked in silence to the house, but Anne Craig rose up from the darkness of the veranda and cried, "Oh, here you are, Harry—and Miss Gilbert. Robert told me that you were not there for dinner!"

In mock dismay they faced each other for a moment, then Lila felt his hand crushing hers and heard his voice that said very low, "Forgive me for being Harry. Let me be your friend!"

TRAVELING IN THE OLD DAYS

Luxurious Accommodations Provided for Those Who Journeyed by Boat on the Hudson.

The frequency with which boilers blew up on the early Hudson river boats led to the use of what were known as "safety barges," and these, in their day, were considered the utmost luxury in travel, comparable to the private cars of the magnates of to-day, remarks the Buffalo Courier. The barges were boats with main and upper decks and were almost as large as the steamers which towed them. The rabble rode on the steamers, inhaled the smells of the kitchen and the freight holds, endured the noise of the engines and took the chances of explosions, while on the barges behind the elite traveled in luxurious state. Food was brought from the boat kitchen to the barge saloon over a swaying bridge between the vessels and was served with great aplomb under the direction of a barge captain, who was a noble figure in the setting.

The upper decks of the barges were canopied and decked with flowers, with promenades and easy chairs from which to view the scenery. At night the interiors were transformed into sleeping accommodations, much the same as in a modern Pullman, except that they were more commodious. Not the least attractive feature of these barges, according to a chronicler of their excellence, was "an elegant bar, most sumptuously supplied with all that can be desired by the most fastidious and thirsty."

If You Must Cry—

Although crying has almost gone out for women—it is as rare as fainting in some up-to-date groups of girls—still there are women who are old-fashioned enough to indulge in a good cry now and then. And if this has happened and an emergency arises where one has to fare forth immediately, exposing one's red-eyed condition to a curious world, it may be well to bear in mind that a vigorous application of hot water to the entire face will speedily do away with the redness. Apply cloths saturated with hot water to the lids, removing and saturating again as soon as the water cools. A few minutes of this treatment will call the blood to the entire face, and when the glow subsides the eyelids will be as light as the rest of the face.—Chicago Journal.

His Future.

"My dear," said the banker to his only daughter, "I have noticed a young man in the drawing room two or three evenings each week of late. What is his occupation?"

"He is at present unemployed, father," replied the fair girl, a dreamy, far-away look in her big blue eyes, "but he is thining seriously of accepting a position of life companion to a young lady of means."

The Doctor and the Patient.

"Did the doctor tell you what you had?"

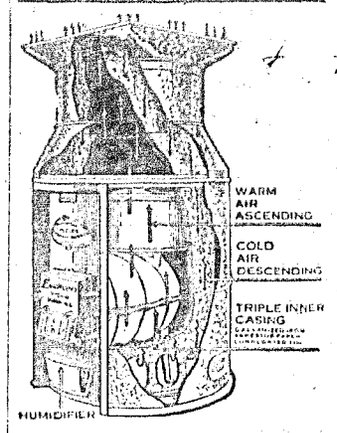
"No. He took what I had without telling me."

The Foreman and the Laborer.

A gang of laborers was employed digging a mysterious ditch across the street. It was a sewer or a place to put gas pipe or something. One man in particular was working as if he were a chorus man in a play, just going through the motions and pretending to dig a ditch.

The foreman came along and spoke to him. "Don't be afraid," he said, with rich sarcasm. "Lean on th' shovel now an' then. If it breaks I'll pay for it!"

It pays to advertise in The Register.



INTERNATIONAL WOOD BURNING ONEPIPE HEATER

THIS new INTERNATIONAL Onepipe Heater is especially designed and correctly built for burning wood only. It has large double feed door and a long fire box to take big chunks of wood. It burns the fuel slowly, getting all the heat out of it, because the wood lies straight. You can depend upon it to carry a fire through the night.

It is easy to regulate. You can have a good hot fire on extremely cold days or a slow, steady fire in milder weather.

Through its one register, it heats all your rooms comfortably, all the time and keeps your cellar cool.

Let us explain the details.

Holding Down Your Job

means "holding up" a good pair of eyes. Indeed! The eyes are the Barometers of your personal efficiency. Keep your eyes right and you keep your mind "right"—right on the job every minute. Perhaps its your eyes. Most of us have defective eyesight—unknowingly. Be sure. An examination may "set you right." You may not need glasses. If you do, our all Shelltex Shur-ons not only look well, fit well, wear well, but actually save lenses, as well.

WHY DO THEY LIKE THIS MAN?

IT IS BECAUSE HE HAS THE LIFE AND ENERGY THAT RED BLOOD GIVES.

He has a good color. He is strong and virile, and looks it. He is good humored. He laughs easily. In short, he is "full of life," which is simply another way of saying he is full of red blood. If you are weak and run down and nervous, don't sleep very well and have a poor appetite, go to your druggist and buy a few bottles of Gude's Pepto-Mangan and take it for a few weeks at meal-time. See how it will build you up by giving you plenty of good blood. Don't drag around half sick and half well. Get some "pep" into you by taking Pepto-Mangan. Sold in both liquid and tablet form.

TOWN TALK.

Truman H. Newberry has been seated in the United States senate. Unlimited funds were spent to elect him, Newberry himself admitting that from $200,000 to $250,000 had been spent in his behalf. Some of the Republican senators wanted him kept out of the senate on the ground that no senator should be seated in whose behalf so great a sum had been spent, but the senate voted to seat him by a majority of four votes. Mr. Newberry will now help to make the laws which will govern the people of the United States.

* * *

Some of the Republican senators who opposed seating a man who had been elected through the use of such a vast sum, declared that senators who voted to seat him would be driven from office by the people of their states. Senator Walter E. Edge of New Jersey said the moral conscience of the nation was shocked by these large expenditures to elect a senator, but he voted to seat Newberry, just the same. So did Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen.

* * *

Senator Edge and Senator Frelinghuysen are probably very little afraid of losing their election because they voted for Newberry. Both of them are men of great wealth. The seating of Newberry is a notice served on the people of New Jersey and the people of the United States that the expenditure of unlimited sums to win an election will not deprive a man of his seat, nor will it lose him the esteem of a majority of his fellow senators. It will also confirm a belief held by various persons that senatorships can be bought by the use of money at elections, and the senate has been frequently styled a millionaire's club.

* * *

Neither Senator Edge and Frelinghuysen are likely to fear anything from the people of New Jersey because of their vote on Newberry when they come up for election. New Jersey has the least political independence of any state in the Union. The great bulk of the voters of New Jersey would vastly sooner see a millionaire of their own party buy his way into the United States senate than to see a man of another party there, even though the other man were superior in every way to the candidate of their own party.

* * *

Knowing this fact, Senators Edge and Frelinghuysen no doubt feel that the predictions of Senator Borah and others, that they would be driven from their seats because of their vote for Newberry, is without foundation. They may even exult in their vote on this matter and may make the seating of Newberry one of the planks of their platform. If they should do so, and should make speeches declaring that it was a fine thing to have seated a man in whose behalf so many tens of thousands had been spent, the people who heard them would probably cheer them and tell them that they did a noble and righteous thing when they kept a man of their own party in office, no matter by what means he gained his election.

* * *

Some time, however, the people of New Jersey may murder the old-line politicians who believe that anything goes in this state. Already there are strong mutterings of discontent at the action of the New Jersey senators in voting to seat Newberry, after the expenditure of the tremendous sums to elect him. In the past the Republicans of Essex county have shown a spirit of independence which may spread to other parts of the state. The nomination and election of Senator Colby, of Senator Osborne and of Senator Parry of Essex county, against the fiercest efforts of the Republican machine, show how strong this spirit of independence is among the Republicans there.

* * *

A wave of similar Republican independence may at any time sweep over the whole state, and rout the candidates of the political machines. When that wave does come it will be a great thing for the people of New Jersey and for the people of the whole country if an able man, with a broad vision, combined with strong common sense, should be the candidate of the Republican party and should get elected to the senate of the United States.

The head of the tile trust, who was sent to prison for four months by the federal government for violations of the law, has been released. The tile trust was a combine which raised to a high figure the price of tile used in building homes at the very time when homes were needed more than they had ever before been needed in this country. Every man who built a home and every man who rented a home had to pay more because of this illegal combine.

* * *

This man had been released after serving about a month of his term and he had been released a week or two before the public found out anything about it. Then the explanation was given that a doctor had said he had consumption and he was waiter released on that account. The head of a trust is probably a very rich man. Of course his money and his position had nothing to do with getting him out of prison, and yet there are probably a lot of poor fellows who will go to prison while he is free. How it is that a rich man with consumption can so easily get out of prison while hundreds and thousands of poor men with consumption stay in prison to serve out their terms or die in prison while serving their sentence.

TO INVESTIGATE KEANSBURG.

The New Borough Council Votes to Overhaul the Former Body's Books.

At the last meeting of the borough council of Keansburg the councilmen voted to ask Judge Kalisch to appoint a commissioner to investigate the books of the borough during the administration of the last board of officials. Only one of the councilmen voted against the proposition, and he voted against it, he said, because he did not know whether or not the taxpayers would want to stand for the expense of the investigation.

PHONOGRAPHS AND RECORDS

February Records

NOW ON SALE

12-in.—$1.50
30025 Kamennoi Ostrow (Stony Island) (Op. 10) (Rubenstein) Pianoforte Solo — Leopold Godowsky

10-in.—$1.00
5075 Arlesienne—Minuet (Bizet) — Vessella's Italian Band
Arlesienne—Farandole (Bizet) — Vessella's Italian Band
Vessella and his Italian Band here record (in two parts) the popular suite from "The Women of Arles" in a manner that would do credit to a symphony orchestra. The tuneful melodies are happily placed and beautifully played, balance and proportion is never sacrificed to tempo or climax. This superb band interpretation will be a valuable addition to any record library and will grow in the estimation of the fortunate possessor.

10-in.—$1.00
10049 La donna e mobile (Woman is Fickle from "Rigoletto" Act III (Verdi) Tenor in Italian — Mario Chamlee
The act from which this universally known aria is taken might be sub-titled "The Fool's Revenge," for it is here that Rigoletto—the hunchback jester—proves to his daughter, Gilda, that her lover—the Duke—is faithless. She and her father, hiding at night outside a dilapidated inn, see the Duke enter it, order entertainment and as he shuffles a pack of cards, hear him sing the famous song, "Woman is Fickle." It has grace, verve and buoyancy and is easily remembered after one hearing.

10-in.—$1.00
5071 Listen to the Mocking Bird (Winner) Bird Voices by Margaret McKee Soprano — Marie Tiffany and Mixed Trio
Ma Curly-Headed Bebby (Clutsam) Soprano — Marie Tiffany
Singers and violinists have united with the home musician in making "Listen to the Mocking Bird" a famous popular song and in its intimate appeal Marie Tiffany, the versatile Metropolitan soprano, is her natural, kindly and cheery self. The mixed trio and the bird voices supplement the soloist and make this a record every American home must have. In the charming negro-mammy song, "Ma Curly-Headed Babby," Miss Tiffany is as delinquative as she is delightful. It will warm your heart to hear her croon this love-song to "Ma Curly-Headed Babby."

10-in.—$1.25
13031 I'll Forget You (Burns-Ball) Tenor — Theo. Karle
The World is Waiting for the Sunrise (Lockhart-Seitz) Tenor — Theo. Karle
The words of these songs are sufficient in themselves to warrant high praise and when Theo. Karle's voice and interpretive powers are enlisted in the service of the lovely settings the combination is a stellar one.

10-in.—$1.00
10036 My Laddie (Troubetzkoy-Thayer) Soprano — Florence Easton
Florence Easton was never greater than in this Scotch heart-song, "My Laddie," with its appeal of text equaling its melodic attractiveness. Each tone a pearl and each "Scotchy" word a gem, and the whole within the ken of any and every lover of music.

10-in.—85c.
2173 I'm Just Too Mean to Cry (Parish-Young-Squires) Tenor — Al Bernard with Carl Fenton's Orchestra

Dapper Dan (Brown-VonTilzer) Tenor and Baritone — Billy Jones and Ernest Hare

12-in.—$1.50
30024 La Capricieuse (Elgar) Violin Solo — Bronislaw Huberman
In form as capricious as its name this violin solo, by the noted English composer, Elgar, sparkles with memorable melodic fancies that coax and cajole the ear until one is entranced.

10-in.—$1.25
13032 Autumn and Winter (Glazounow) Violin, Cello and Piano — Elshuco Trio
Swedish Folk Song (Swendsen) Violin, Cello and Piano — Elshuco Trio
The record-loving world needs more of such reproductions as this disc will release. No trio before the public offers a more perfected ensemble than does the Elshuco Trio.

10-in.—85c.
2166 Sally in Our Alley (Carey-Smith) — Strand Male Quartet
Bells of Shandon (Mahoney-Nevin) — Strand Male Quartet

10-in.—$1.00
5072 Stars Fox Trot (Alden) — Isham Jones' Orchestra
What'll You Do? Fox Trot (Isham Jones) — Isham Jones' Orchestra
The Isham Jones' Orchestra in two fresh and frolicsome fox-trots. "Stars" and "What'll You Do," this latter written by Jones himself. The lilt and the punch, the wealth of color and the sense of exhilaration we most crave pervade these recordings and dance lovers will rank them among the best this brilliant orchestra has offered.

BANQUET OF NEW MONMOUTH LADIES' AID SOCIETY.

Belford's Odd Fellows Install Officers —New House at Campbell's Junction—Port Monmouth Boy's Ankle Sprained—Navesink Euchre Party.

One hundred and thirty persons attended the annual banquet for the members of the New Monmouth Baptist ladies' aid society and their friends last Thursday night. The affair was held in the church hall. A fine dinner was served and a program was given, including solos by William Dennis and Mrs. Willard Boyd. Orchestra selections were rendered by Miss Alma Palmer, A. Judson Palmer, Thomas Davron and Frank Harding. James Griggs, dressed as a woman, read the ladies' aid alphabet in the form of a poem. Much merriment was caused by a roll call, at which a group of women recited a poem as each woman rose to respond to her name.

The following officers of Cable lodge of Odd Fellows of Belford were installed last week:

Noble grand—Charles Fourt.
Vice grand—David Schnoor.
Past grand—C. Harry Lohsen.
Recording secretary—Matthias Lehman.
Financial secretary—Irving Roop.
Chaplain—Walter Smith.
Warden—John Vanderbilt.
Conductor—Frank Wilson.
Treasurer—Walter Smith.
Right support to noble grand—Melvin Leek.
Left support to noble grand—James M. Tilton.
Right support to vice grand—Rudolph Lang.
Left support to vice grand—Oswald Roop.
Right scene supporter—Henry Fisler.
Left scene supporter—Garrett Wilson.
Inside guardian—Melvin F. Yard.
Outside guardian—Henry Heran.

Alfred J. Edwards is building a house at Campbell's Junction for his own occupancy. The house will have eight rooms and a bathroom. Mr. Edwards is a carpenter and he is doing the work himself.

Fred Runyon, son of Charles Runyon of Port Monmouth, is suffering from a sprained ankle. Fred is nine years old. He was hurt Sunday while playing on a see-saw.

About 100 persons attended a euchre party held last week at the Navesink firehouse by the auxiliary. S. J. Francis won first prize at pinochle and Mrs. Margaret Liming won first prize at euchre. The auxiliary will hold its next card party on Tuesday night, February 14th.

The pupils of the Navesink public school who were neither absent nor tardy during the past month are Dennis Sheehan, Clemens Reid, Myron VanBrunt, James Bennett, Frank Pape and John Hatch of the first grade; Stanley Hallam, Charles Koehler, Omar Sickles, Paul Silva, John E. Wicks, Jr., Thelma Crawford, Lucinda Hallam, Vivian Hurley, Norma King, Ruth King, Sarah Kipp, Emma Stevenson, Dorothy Walling and Helen Downs of the second and third grades; Alvira Crawford, Dorothy Schanck, Mary Woodson, Anna McGough, Morrin Mullin, John Sheehan, Leroy Smith and Walter Downs of the fourth and fifth grades; and Raymond Kennedy, Joseph Liphart, Jay Smith, Gladys Bennett, Gertrude Collins and Alma Hurley of the sixth grade.

The Navesink Epworth league will hold a sociable next Monday night at Mrs. John E. Williams's. A musical program will be given. A feature of the sociable will be a pastime known as "The court of petty offenses." Howard DeVesty will be the judge and he will impose a fine of a few cents on every offender. Mrs. Albert Sickles is chairman of the sociable committee.

The children's world crusaders of New Monmouth elected these officers last week:

President—Anna Luker.
Vice presidents—Mildred Morris, Mildred Saunders.
Secretary—Verna Helmuth.
Corresponding secretary—Myrtle Halsey.
Manager—Harriet Smith.
Treasurer and director—Miss Gladys Johnson.
Pianists—Miss Agnes Collision, Jeannette Saunders.

The young man who put the tourniquet on Lawrence Conley's arm after the accident on the river at Red Bank last week was James Luker of Belford and not a doctor from New York, as reported. Mr. Luker has been nicknamed "Doc" at Belford because of his knowledge of first aid, and also because of his presence of mind when others get excited.

A rally of all the Christian Endeavor societies in the county will be held tomorrow night at the New Monmouth Baptist church. R. L. Lansing, the New Jersey field secretary, will make the principal address. County Christian Endeavor officials will be elected.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Chambliss of Newark spent Sunday with Mrs. Chambliss's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Phillips of Port Monmouth. Mrs. Smith has returned to her home in the southern part of the state after a stay with her mother, Mrs. Phillips.

George Boyce of Belford has sold his Ford runabout to Charles Walling and he has bought a Ford touring car from Gordon White. David Voorhees of Belford has sold his Ford touring car to Fred Johnson, who will use the automobile for hauling soft clams.

The Leonardo high school basketball team defeated Atlantic Highlands high school last week by a score of 24 to 16. The Leonardo girls' team defeated the Atlantic Highlands girls' team by a score of 26 to 3.

The Campbell's Junction club passed the most inactive week in its history last week. Timothy Reddington, the club president, was laid up. He has recovered and the club is now in full bloom again.

James Craven, who has been employed as cook by a moving picture company, is back at his home at Belford. He has been in New York state, Maine and Canada this winter.

Phyllis Williams of Leonardo, whose eye was injured by a pen point several weeks ago, went to New York Monday to have her eye examined by a specialist.

Andrew, Edward, Melvin and Margaret Ryan children of Patrick Ryan of Leonardo, are sick with scarletina. Jean Morris of Leonardo is also sick with the same disease.

Thomas Smith of Belford has repainted Ralph Scott's house outside and inside and he is now painting Mrs. Eva Mawson's house.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dennis of Hoboken are making a stay with Mrs. Dennis's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Runyon of Belford.

Charles Runyon has opened a store for the sale of dry goods, notions and candy in a new building on his property at Port Monmouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Weathers and daughter Edna of Keyport spent Sunday with Thomas Weathers of Port Monmouth.

George Roop of Brooklyn spent Sunday with friends at Belford.

Mrs. Harry Thiesmayer of Jersey City is spending several days with her mother, Mrs. Amanda Wilson of Belford.

Frederick Drake of Tottenville is very sick at the home of his niece, Mrs. J. Henry Walling of Port Monmouth.

Robert N. Seeley of Port Monmouth is having a large garage built. J. Henry Walling is doing the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Boyd of Tottenville spent Sunday with Mrs. J. Henry Walling of Port Monmouth.

An invitation dance which the graduating class of the Leonardo high school will give for the eleventh grade has been postponed from tomorrow night to Thursday night of next week.

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hendrickson of Middletown have been entertaining Jared Bennett of Merchantville.

Miss Mary Haulboskey of New York spent part of last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Haulboskey of Leonardo.

Charles T. Leonard is building a number of bathhouses and a pavilion on Leonard's beach at Leonardo.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Walling of Keyport spent Sunday as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Langford.

Garrett Corson has been a guest of friends at Stonington, Connecticut.

James Ashe and family will move next week from Leonardo to Walter B. Connors's house at Navesink.

Thieves broke into the Belford schoolhouse last Wednesday night and stole a graphophone.

Sociability and refreshments of cake, coffee and cigars were enjoyed after the installation.

Mrs. Amzi Thorne of Leonardo spent Thursday with Mrs. Daniel Ahearn of Belford.

Fred Appel, who is employed at Elizabeth, spent Sunday with his family at Belford.

Miss Melissa Cook of Belvidere was a Sunday guest of Miss Maud Roop of Belford.

Virginia Forrest, daughter of George Forrest of Belford, is sick with scarletina.

Mrs. George Martin of Port Monmouth has recovered from appendicitis without an operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Phillips, two of the oldest residents of Belford, are very sick.

New House at Fair Haven.

William H. Bennett of Fair Haven is building a house on Forman place at that place for his own occupancy. The house will have six rooms and a bathroom and will cost $3,000. Howard Applegate & Son are the contractors.

"Acting Up"

By LINCOLN ROTHBLUM

(Copyright, 1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Mirandy Jenkins folded her checked gingham apron triangle fashion, and, tucking the corner in at the belt, rested her arms on the fence railing.

It was summer time in the outlying farm districts of the town of Carrollton and the air was redolent with the green odor of alfalfa. Mirandy distended her nostrils to get the diffusing fragrance. On the crest of the hill, topping the road which led past the house, appeared a none too strong horse. It dragged with lagging feet a rig of doubtful origin. It would have been difficult to tell the occupation of the driver who sat beneath the ragged and sagging top if not for the sack which lay at his feet labeled in letters of warning size, "U. S. Mail." As the outfit started down grade the man raised his crushed hat and made an effort to brush the upstanding hairs into place. A "ribbon" tie was next adjusted and to its already numerous stains were added a few more from the dusty hands. When these offices had been performed, he shifted the reins from his right to left hand and waved in recognition of Mirandy's fluttering handkerchief.

"Mornin', Mandy," was his greeting, as he drew up before the gate.

"Mornin', Seth. Any mail for me?"

"Nothin', 'cept the county newspaper. How's y'r grandpaw?"

"Poorly, poorly, Seth. The doc says he won't last much longer."

"Then we'll get married, Mandy, and no puttin' it off again. Eh?"

Mirandy blushed as if this were the first time the subject had been broached to her. "La, Seth, how you do talk," was the flirtatious response; "but it just seems like we'll never get there. First it was grandmaw who kept us from getting married, what with being so sick and cantankerous, and then you lost y'r job—and of course we couldn't get married 'till you was appointed this route, and now it be my grandpaw sick and ailin' and eatin' up the revenue."

Seth spat out a generous quid of tobacco and after replacing it with a fresh supply, shook his head resignedly. "Well, I'll be 'round tomorrow, Mandy—so' long."

"So long Seth. I'll be expectin' you."

And Mirandy's workworn figure drooped as her eyes followed the departing buggy. Sentenced to the hard manual drudgery of a badly managed farm before securing even such elemental education as the village offered; saddled with aged grandparents who fought off every innovation which might have lightened her labors, and forced by eternally present financial straits to forego any pleasure which involved the expenditure of money, Mirandy's youth had slipped away almost without her knowledge, until she found herself well on the road to forty with a rapid complexion and toil-hardened hands as her only assets.

But in this sacrificing and unheralded martyrdom, to which she had given herself with neither complaint nor hope for reward, there were two pinnacles of joy. One was Seth, to whose everlasting credit must be said that none of the obstacles which had delayed his wedding to Mirandy had lessened his fidelity.

Mirandy crept into bed, where despite the straw tick she soon fell asleep. She arose unrested. The morning sun, scarcely awake, suggested another round of toilsome tasks. Perhaps every morning it was the thought of Seth which hastened the always rapid dressing and the chores were well completed as she retreated to her bedroom to "fuss up" before waiting at the fence.

But this morning Seth was destined to wait himself into impatience, for no aproned figure leaned against the gate as he drew up. So he walked to meet her.

"Mornin', Mandy."

"Mornin', Seth. Any mail for me?"

"Nothin' 'cept the county newspaper. But I got a letter, an' seein' as you might as well get used to openin' my mail now, I brought it to you."

Mirandy smiled at the subtle compliment in a style Seth dubbed "pritty."

"Why, it's from the government," Mirandy exclaimed as she took the envelope with its franking privilege stamp. Anything official frightened her, but perhaps it was woman's intuitive premonition which foretold the bad news her face so patently reflected. "It says, Seth," she muttered, "it says you got to get—you got to get an auto if you want to keep y'r job."

And so to meet the government's changes for efficiency went Seth's entire savings. And though the new system augmented his salary, he soon found that the price of gasoline ran higher than that of oats.

It was again summer in Carrollton. Mirandy was very happy this morning, for had not the wedding date been set just six months off? Six months is a very short time when one has been waiting nigh on twenty years.

"Mornin', Mandy."

"Mornin', Seth. Any mail for me?"

"Nothin' 'cept the county newspaper," and then with a mock air of surprise, "I declare, why here's a letter for you," just as if he had not nearly yielded to the temptation to open it ever since it had been placed in his mail sack at six o'clock that morning.

"A letter for me!" echoed Mirandy. But Mirandy's astonishment at getting a letter did not equal her amazement as she read its contents. On the letterhead of an attorney, it ran:

"Your uncle, Ezekiel Barrett, has died intestate. As sole surviving heir, you are entitled to the $500 he has left. Our solicitor will visit you shortly to secure the necessary signature."

When Mirandy did a thing unheard of. She kissed Seth. "We can get married right off now," she gurgled, "get married, Seth, don't you hear?"

For Seth was already chugchugging down the road. Mirandy stared at the letter.

The next morning the customary exchange of greetings was omitted as Mirandy abruptly asked, "Now we get the money, won't you want to be gettin' married?"

Seth looked up as he rolled a stone with the toe of his boot. His answer came hesitatingly. "Can't you see, Mandy, if I was to marry you now, without a cent of my own, folks'll be sayin' I was marryin' you for y'r money."

"Have you got a mind?" Mirandy asked sarcastically. Seth stood aghast. This was their final quarrel.

Then one morning Seth did not find Mirandy at the gate. She was sick. The doctor had ordered an alarming array of pills and medicines and although Seth faithfully sat at her bedside every evening, Mirandy refused to get well. Seth went about like a shadow of his former self. Never before had he realized just how very much Mirandy meant in his life. And then came the relapse; Mirandy was dying. The doctor confessed he could do nothing. Seth sat by the bed and held the worn hands in his own warty, callousèd ones. What could he do? Oh, if he could save her!

"Mandy," he called suddenly, "let's get married."

Mirandy stirred. "I heard the doc tellin' you," came in a weak, faraway voice, "that I be dyin'."

Tears unchecked traced grimy routes down Seth's tanned cheeks. Mirandy went on. "Folks'll think if you married me now you'll be wantin' to inherit my money."

"Oh, Mandy," Seth choked, "what do we care 'bout folks 'round here? I want to 'tend you like a husband while y're here."

Mirandy turned over at the unusual sentimentality of Seth's speech. "All right, Seth, then we'll get married," she answered with a smile.

And Mirandy seemed to improve at once. Perhaps it was Seth's husbandly care, or perhaps it was just something else, but Mirandy got well with surprising rapidity.

It was after the wedding. Mirandy, seated on the arm of Seth's chair, nervously straightened the edge of the lace doily pinned on the coarse, horsehair upholstering.

"I got a confession to make," she said.

Seth looked up and took the clay pipe from his mouth. He thought in twenty years he had learned everything in Mirandy's life.

"I wasn't dyin' that time, Seth," she smiled, "the doc helped to make y' see you needed me. I was just actin' up, Seth."

And then Seth did a thing unheard of. He kissed Mirandy.

Bagpipes Are English.

It was actually a Scotsman, and no less a man than the lord advocate of the time, who publicly declared 50 years ago that "the bagpipe is an English instrument, essentially English; the English were the original bagpipers." He pointed out that, while Shakespeare often speaks of bagpipes, he never does so in "Macbeth," and that it is in Lincolnshire and Yorkshire that he localizes the pipes.

To Chaucer and Spenser also they are English. James IV and other Scottish kings paid for "Inglis pyparis" at their court, while Edward I, Edward III, Henry IV and Henry VIII seem to have had native pipers. The Highlanders never used the pipes in war before the fifteenth century; the harp was Scotland's instrument.

Oldest Chinese Holiday.

What is probably the oldest "living" anniversary still is celebrated in China. It is that of the birth of Confucius, and falls on the day known to occidentals as October 1. The Canton Times of that date says:

"Canton streets are in their holiday attire today in honor of the anniversary of the birth of Confucius. Shops of Dahtung street, Cham Mook lane and Sup Sam Hong present the best appearances. The Chinese schools will have a holiday, holding the ceremony of worship in the morning and feasts in the evening. Wang Ying college in Honam, under Principal Chan Chung Kai, will have a whole day of celebration, beginning early in the morning, when they will march to the Confucian temple together."

Floyd Gibbons' Story.

Floyd Gibbons, the famous correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, who lost an eye at the front, tells a good story of an American:

"I met a Kansas boy," said Mr. Gibbons, "among troops fighting in the Villers Cotteret forest, July 19. He was interviewing German prisoners. To one who appeared to be a rather superior type he addressed the question in German:

"What outfit do you belong to?" The answer came proudly—and in good English:

"I am of the storm troops."

The Kansan in khaki laughed and said:

"Storm troops, hell. We come from Kansas. We're cyclones."

Bomb-Dropping Balloons.

The first bomb-dropping balloons were humble enough and equally futile. Balloons had been used in war as early as the siege of Maubeuge by the Austrians for observation purposes.

The first talk of bomb dropping was in 1812, when the Russians were said to have a huge balloon for that purpose, but nothing was done with it.

In 1847, however, the Austrians, when attacking Venice, sent up paper fire balloons, which were to drop shells into the town. But they forgot to allow for contrary air currents. The ballons got into one, drifted back toward the Austrians and bombed them instead of Venice.

Where Did He Get It?

Flatbush—Did you hear about Bushwick?

Bensonhurst—No; what?

"He's in trouble with the government."

"No; really?"

"Yes; it got reported around that he was eating too much."

Not Hard to Suit.

Mrs. Eastend—You'll not find me difficult to suit, Nora.

Nora (the new maid)—I'm sure not, ma'am; I saw your husband as I came in, ma'am.

The Good Old Days

By FREDERICK CLARKE.

Copyright, 1921, Western Newspaper Union

Dainty little Nellie Barton was crying as if her heart would break. It was in vain that her best friend and neighbor sought to comfort her. This was the first cloud that had arisen in the matrimonial sky for Mrs. Barton, and, of course, after a season of perfect honeymoon bliss, it seemed to be a terribly dark one.

"Tell me all about it, dear, and let us see if between us we can't find some way to patch up this first domestic quarrel."

"Quarrel!" repeated the bride of a month in a terrified gasp. "Oh, dear, no—there has been no quarrel."

"Go on, dear," she urged.

"It's about the meals," confessed Nellie, with a little sob. "I thought everything was just suiting Ronald to a T. He praised my biscuits and said he just doted on my cookies, pie and sunshine cake. He said they reminded him of food for angels. Then yesterday I found out that it was all a mollow hockery."

"What, my dear?"

"I mean a hollow mockery. I've been so upset I get flustered whenever I think of it. You must know that an old college chum of his was at tea last evening—a Mr. Stowell. I did my best to make Ronald proud of me. Everything was light and dainty."

"What was it, dear?" inquired Mrs. Dorsett.

"Oh, they got talking of old times. Mr. Stowell reminded Ronald of a glorious week they had spent together at the Barton home, before they were married. Such cooking! How mother did set out a meal that was a meal! Particularly how Mr. Stowell had never had such an appetite as evenings when mother had baked beans. Such beans! And mince pie! Oh, it made his mouth water to think of it! Then Ronald got egged on to brag of his mother. That salt rising—um! um!" and pretty Nellie, in trying to imitate her dear one, broke down again.

"And apple sauce!" she choked out, as the last straw. Practical, loving Mrs. Dorsett tried to soothe her.

"See here, my dear," she said, "you are making a great mountain out of the chatter of two big overgrown boys. Now promise to forget it and I will make everything right."

"How w-will you?" sobbed Nellie. "Will you keep a secret?"

"Y yes if it w-will do any good."

"Very well, mother is coming to visit me next week. You say Mr. Stowell is going to come to tea again on his way home from his trip?"

"Yes, he is invited for Thursday evening."

"Then Thursday evening, dear," promised Mrs. Dorsett, with a little wrinkle of a smile about her lips, "those two overgrown boys shall just revel in all the dainties of old times."

Ronald Barton ushered his friend and old-time chum into the neat, attractive little dining room at home, proud of the neatly set table with its glittering silver and glassware. Nellie never looked lovelier. It was when the maid brought in a great steaming dish of pork and beans that Ronald stared a little.

"Butcher must have forgotten the lamb chops," he said apologetically.

"Always liked them," declared Stowell.

"Why, Nellie, isn't this some new fangled sort of baker's bread?" inquired Ronald.

"No, indeed!" resented Nellie with dignity. "That is the regular old-fashioned home-made, salt-rising bread that everybody dotes over."

"Guess our tastes are getting sort of perverted, old boy!" laughed Stowell.

Ronald's eyes fairly bulged at the dessert. The apple sauce looked to him a poor, thin, cheerless dish to offer to an invited guest.

And then came the climax as the maid soberly brought in three great slabs of mince pie—good pie, grand pie, but on a hot night—!

"Too heavy for me," declared Stowell, and Ronald glanced reproachfully at Nellie.

The gentlemen adjourned to the porch. Ronald experienced a species of social discomfort.

"Guess we'd better stroll down to the hotel a little later and have a game of billiards, eh, Barton?" he suggested.

"They open a new grill room tonight, I hear," observed Ronald. "Why, mother!" and the speaker sprang from his chair and greeted his mother with genuine gladness.

"This is a surprise, Mrs. Barton," spoke Stowell.

"Yes, I was busy out in the kitchen and was afraid the maid would spoil things if I didn't superintend a little," spoke the old lady demurely, as she had been taught by her plotting daughter, Mrs. Dorsett.

And then the truth dawned on Ronald. He glanced at his companion. Stowell had flushed up and looked bored.

"Boys," spoke Mrs. Barton in her winning, motherly way, "never forget that two healthy, all day roving lads coming in to a heavy farm supper hungry as tramps aren't two dainty city-bred children of the larger growth. The 'cooking mother did' is just the thing in its place, but, as I notice from what you left, it doesn't hold a candle to dear little Nellie's clever trifles."

And that was the last that Nellie Barton ever heard of "mother's cooking."

Her Sure Sign.

Mary—I'm positive Fred loves me and intends to make me his wife.

Helen—Why? Has he proposed yet?

Mary—No; but he dislikes mother more every time he sees her.

A Negligent Neighbor.

Subbubs—What kind of people are the Nextdores?

Outawayz—He's negligent and shiftless. The garden hose he loans me is full of holes and he never thinks of fixing it!

The Ten-Thirty Call

By PERCY WILSON

(Copyright.)

Snapper was looking over the yardmaster's shoulder when the operator handed the latter the order for an extra. As was not unusual with him on very slight provocation, the yardmaster immediately "went off the iron." "Where's that call-boy?" he demanded. "What's become of that red-head? Where is— Oh!" as he turned his head and came afoul of Snapper's smirking countenance, "here you are!"

"Yes, here I are!" mocked Snapper. "Go on, go on—say what you were going to. Don't mind me! Where did you expect to find me—in your lap?" The call-boy was aggrieved.

"What's the earliest you can call this extra for?" was the brisk query. "Ten-thirty?"

With an exasperating affection of indifference, Snapper let his eye wander to the clock, gaped a minute over the crew-board, and gradually came around to the book. "I reckon," he answered. Then, with sudden interest: "Who's to shovel smoke?"

"Oh, you take notice, do you? Now, that's what I want to impress on you. Listen."

"'Laying a hand to his ear,'" quoted Snapper from a favorite author, and suiting action to the speech, "'he gave close heed to the fiendish disclosure.' Go on."

The yardmaster was too accustomed to these burlesques to honor them with any attention. "Go for Burnside," he directed.

"He was let off."

"I know that. Pay attention. He was to be off until midnight, unless we should need him in some emergency this morning; and this is the emergency. He promised to stay at home till nine o'clock, and not to leave town before ten." He glanced at the clock. "It's only eight-fifty-eight now. You ought to find him easily," winking to the operator.

"Sure!" returned Snapper. "If only I hadn't bent one of me wings! What was it the coal-heaver wanted off for, anyway?"

"To rob a bank, maybe. Don't bother me; but go get him."

"Put his name down," said Snapper in disgust. "I'll get him."

The yardmaster entered the name and handed the call-book over. "Now, hustle," he directed.

Snapper thrust the book in his pocket and struck an attitude. "Beware, James Burnside!" he declaimed. "Your doom is knelled, and the avenger—"

The avenger was the yardmaster, and Snapper got through the doorway just in time to escape his foot.

"Hang that kid!" laughed the yardmaster. "He gets on my nerves, with his sporting and fool antics. But he's a good caller," he observed to the operator; "and, mind my word, he'll come back here with Burnside's signature in his book. Heaven knows where he'll find him, though, for Jim's tricky, and he'll dodge if he can. He did beg hard to be off."

In spite of his unhesitating assertion, the call-boy had very grave doubts about getting Burnside. The promise to remain at his boarding place for a call till nine o'clock made it unlikely that he would be there one minute later, while the additional hour did not give much time for finding him in a town of fifteen thousand people. What Snapper most desired to know was, where was he intending to go at ten? He had a suspicion that it had something to do with Kitty Carnigan.

Being too wise, however, to attempt to get this from the young lady herself, as soon as he had called those two of the crew who lived most convenient, he moved directly on the engineer, whom, in the usual order of convenience for himself, he would otherwise have called last of all. His information came without his asking for it.

"Who's to fire for me this trip?" the engineer inquired as he took the book.

"Can't you see?" said Snapper, laying a finger on the name.

"Ho!" laughed the engineer, "you'll not get Burnside. He's going out to Maple Park on the ten o'clock car with his girl and her folks to a basket picnic. He's keeping an eye peeled for you."

To lie in wait and take him from his inamorata as they were starting for the car would have suited the call-boy's dramatic longings most, but it was not an impossibility that the fireman had already forestalled this by an arrangement to meet the party somewhere along the line.

In this uncertainty the immediate thing to be done was to get on his quarry's trail. Snapper gritted his teeth and struck across the meadow. At the farther side of the run he stopped and, on a sudden thought, got down and examined both ends of the short plank that spanned it. Without doing anything more, however, he got up again and went on, and soon entered the Carnigan's rear gate. He had kept his eye sharply on the kitchen window, and flattered himself that he had stolen up unnoticed; yet, when he stopped at the kitchen door, Miss Carnigan seemed not surprised to see him.

There was something suspicious in this. To his inquiry she replied that Mr. Burnside had been there that morning, but had gone into town. Was he wanted?

Oh, no, he wasn't wanted. Snapper had merely noted that he had been looking poorly of late, and stopped to inquire about his health.

He sprinted to the corner just in time to see the fireman turn to the right a block ahead. On an easy trot the call-boy followed after. Overtaking a brakeman, Snapper asked if he had seen Burnside.

"Burnside?" said the man. "Yep; just passed here with throttle wide open and both pops up. Hit the curve and shot up that first alley pounding—and he was going some. Why, I'll bet he was halfway up the side of that house when he made the turn, and I reckon you'll find his footmarks on the wall.

"He called to me to tell you to hurry up, kid," he said with a grin; "and you want to move lively, or he'll lose you."

Snapper knew this was all gammon. He glanced at his watch. It was almost nine-thirty.

"I'll look for those footmarks some other time," he remarked dryly; "I'm in a hurry now," and he started off afresh at a jog trot in the direction that had been indicated.

"There's that long-legged kid again!" ejaculated Burnside. "If he comes back here to the kitchen, I'll slip out the front door and join you on the car somewhere. If he comes to the front, keep him till I can get to the other side of the run; and after he's gone, I'll come around by the street."

Snapper's schedule took him to the front door. There was no answer to his first ring, so he rang again; and shortly Miss Carnigan answered.

"Oh! it's' you, is it?" was her tart greeting. "What do you want now? It's a pity you couldn't have come around to the kitchen door."

"That's the fault of me tender heart, Kitty," returned the unabashed Snapper. "I want Jimmy Burnside, and I couldn't bear to break it to him suddenly. You tell him."

"Didn't I tell you he had left here?"

"Aw, quit it, Kitty! Ain't he going on the picnic with you? Sure!"

"Well," was the admission, "he came back after you left, but he's gone again. You might find him at his boarding house."

Snapper struggled to keep a straight face.

"I've been there once," he returned; "and the book of rules says"—he held his call book close to his nose and thumbed over some blank pages—"it says, here: 'Rule 106—In all cases of doubt or uncertainty, see for yourself.' I've got to do it, Kitty," and he pushed into the house.

"Oh, very well!" retorted the young lady, and followed through to where her mother and a younger sister were finishing the packing of the picnic baskets in the kitchen. "Now! are you satisfied?"

Snapper made no reply. Something of more immediate interest absorbed all his faculties, for his eyes had lighted on the top layer in one of the baskets. "Are those some of your own pies, Mrs. Carnigan?" he inquired in awed tones.

"Sure!" was the answer. "Whose would they be?"

"But, some that you baked yourself?" he persisted with an air of strong disbelief.

"Of course!"

"Mrs. Carnigan"—he wanted a calm, judicial answer to this quest—"are your pies as good as they used to be?"

"Well, I never!" cried Mrs. Carnigan, flinging up her hands. "If you ain't the blarneyer!"

Snapper was not a beauty. He was still growing; his joints were too loose, his feet too big, his clothes too small; yet when he opened his mouth to take in the piece of pie that was immediately cut for him, expanding until his freckles ran together and his whole countenance resembled nothing so much as a wedge disappearing through a large, rusty washer, he became for the moment a sight that gave true joy to Mrs. Carnigan's domestic heart.

"That certainly was good," he murmured in heartfelt commendation as he swallowed the last of it. Then he met Miss Carnigan's anxious eye and gave a sudden impish start. "Gee, Kitty!" he exclaimed. "Someone's fell in the creek."

Stopping at the creek merely long enough to pull the plank out of the water and set it roughly in place, he hastened to the boarding house and went softly up to the firemen's room. He snickered to himself at hearing Burnside muttering objurgations inside and thrashing wet clothes about.

In this dilemma the pie furnished him a hint, for, as it sought a cozy corner of his anatomy in which to dispose itself comfortably, it gave him a gentle internal tweak. In an instant he had doubled up as though taken with a violent cramp and, falling against the door with a horrible groan, seized the knob.

The door was locked, but as he sank on down to the floor he kept up a piteous moaning. In another moment the door opened and he fell half inside.

"You—" began the fireman, then lost speech.

"Aw! sign the book," said Snapper, thrusting it at him. "And be quick about it, too," he added sternly. "I can't be fooling all my time on you."

Burnside mechanically signed.

"I hated to wet you up, Jimmy," said Snapper as he took back the book, "but—"

He slammed the door and raced down the stairs from the irate fireman.

HIS FELLOW-PASSENGER.

He Was a Gentleman, but the Passenger Wanted to be on Safe Side.

A certain reverend gentleman occupied a stateroom on one of the ocean liners with a fellow-passenger. After a while he began to feel just the slightest bit uneasy as to some valuables he had with him. So he took them to the purser and said: "I should just like to explain to you that I am very pleased with my fellow-passenger. That is, I find him a gentleman in every respect, and I wouldn't have you think that—well, wouldn't have you think that my coming to you with these valuables is to be taken as any reflection on him."

With a broad smile the purser interrupted him: "Oh, that's all right, sir; your friend has come to me with some valuables of his own; and he said precisely the same thing about yourself."

Profanity Was Prevalent.

The Clergyman—I had no idea profanity was so prevalent till I began to drive a car.

His Wife—Do you hear much of it on the road?

The Clergyman—Why, nearly every one I bump into swears frightfully.

Private Detective Arrested.

Peter Pollack of Ocean Grove, chief of the "international secret service agency of Newark," with a branch at Asbury Park, was arrested last week by Chief of Police Horace L. Byram of Asbury Park, on a charge of conspiracy. The special charge was that Pollack had induced a man to commit a theft in order to induce the robbed party to employ the detective agency to protect the concern from thefts. Pollack claims that the whole affair is a "frame-up" by someone who has a grudge against him.

RUMSON NEWS.

A Meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association Last Thursday.

A meeting of the parent-teachers' association was held at the school auditorium last Thursday afternoon and was attended by about fifty persons. Miss Laura Sydenham of Plainfield gave an interesting talk about the work of the association. Mrs. Stutts of Shrewsbury spoke of the work done in the school at that place through the association there. A double quartet rendered "Carry Me Back to Ole Virginny" and Leonard Marthans recited "American Independence." A social time was enjoyed after the meeting and refreshments were served by some of the high school girls. A number of new members joined the association. Chairmen of various committees were appointed, Mrs. Edward O'Brien being made chairman of the nominating committee, Mrs. Thomas Clark and Mrs. Peter Olsen of the visiting committee, Mrs. Peter Mulvihill of the refreshment committee, Mrs. William J. Finnegan of the by-laws committee, Miss Margaret Hunt of the finance committee, and Miss Margaret Baxter and Miss Mary Goodenough of the entertainment committee.

A public hearing on the borough budget and on an ordinance establishing the salaries of officials will be held tomorrow night. At the last meeting a bill of $16.50 was received from Joseph Lenny for damages to his house by hoodlums on Hallowe'en. Seven windows in the house were broken by stones thrown by the hoodlums.

Mickey Walker, the middleweight boxer, who trained here last summer, outpointed George Ward in a twelve-round bout Monday night at Newark. Walker knocked Ward down for the count of nine in the second round.

Mr. and Mrs. George Herbert are visiting their daughter, Mrs. George Curtis of Middletown.

Most of the children who were sick with measles are well again and have returned to school. In some grades about half of the pupils were sick with measles at one time.

Mrs. Thomas Ansbro and Miss May Porter spent last week with relatives at New York.

Martin Cook and Joseph Cook of Hoboken were recent visitors in town.

Edward O'Brien, Jr., was home over Saturday and Sunday from the University of Pennsylvania.

John Daly of Call's Neck has bought Charles Wilson's house and lot on the Ridge road. Mr. Daly and his family will move into the house March 1st.

Mrs. Paul Hintelmann has been kept indoors with sickness.

George Turkington, who has been sick several weeks, is slowly improving.

MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS

Read This Letter from Mrs. W. S. Hughes

Greenville, Del.—"I was under the impression that my eldest daughter had some internal trouble as ever since the first time her sickness appeared she had to go to bed and even had to quit school once for a week. I always take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound myself so I gave it to her and she has received great benefit from it. You can use this letter for a testimonial if you wish, as I cannot say too much about what your medicine has done for me and for my daughter."—Mrs. Wm. S. Hughes, Greenville, Delaware.

Mothers and oftentimes grandmothers have taken and have learned the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So they recommend the medicine to others.

The best test of any medicine is what it has done for others. For nearly fifty years we have published letters from mothers, daughters, and women, young and old, recommending the Vegetable Compound. They know what it did for them and are glad to tell others. In your own neighborhood are women who know of its great value.

Mothers—daughters, why not try it?

Monmouth County Orphans Court.
October Term, A. D. 1921.
Order to Show Cause.

In the matter of the Estate of Joseph McNally, deceased.

James J. McNally, administrator of Joseph McNally, deceased, having exhibited to this Court, under oath, a just and true account of the personal estate and debts of said decedent, whereby it appears that the personal estate of said deceased is insufficient to pay his debt, and requesting the aid of the Court in the premises, it is therefore ordered that all persons interested in the lands, tenements and hereditaments and real estate, of the said deceased, appear before the Court, at the Court House, in Freehold, on Thursday, the second day of March, A. D. nineteen hundred and twenty-two, at 10:00 A. M., to show cause why so much of the said lands, tenements, hereditaments and real estate of the said deceased should not be sold as will be sufficient to pay his debts, or the residue thereof, as the case may require.

By the Court,

JOSEPH L. DONAHAY,
Surrogate.

Truth is Mighty and Shall Prevail

The universal popularity of Studebaker Cars is attested by the fact that the corporation enjoyed the biggest business in its history in the year of 1921.

The sales of Studebaker Cars were 29% greater than in 1920, notwithstanding the fact that the total number of cars sold of all other makes (except Ford) was 40% less than in 1920. Stated otherwise, Studebaker's ratio of sales was 129 and the total of other makes 60, as compared with 1920.

The number of Studebaker Cars sold in the year of 1921 in both Greater New York and in the Metropolitan District exceeded the sales of any other make except Ford.

Studebaker is the world's largest producer of six-cylinder cars.

The only possible explanation of the popularity of Studebaker Cars lies in their quality, durability and dependable performance in users' hands. Proof that the cars stand up in service with minimum repairs is evidenced by the fact that our sales of Repair Parts in 1921 were 12% less than they were in 1919, notwithstanding that 118,000 new cars were sold and put in operation in 1920 and 1921. Based on the total estimated number of Studebaker Cars in operation in 1921, we sold $16.00 worth of parts per car for repairs from all causes, including accidents.

The materials and workmanship in Studebaker Cars measure up to the highest standards known to the automobile industry. Substantially better intrinsic values cannot be obtained at any price. The theory that high prices necessarily mean fine cars is fallacious, simply because prices are not based upon intrinsic values but upon production costs of individual makers, which vary widely according to their ability and manufacturing facilities. Obviously, high costs of production, inevitably arising from incompetence or inadequate manufacturing facilities, mean not only high prices but actually inferior cars.

With $70,000,000 of actual net assets including $36,000,000 of plant facilities, Studebaker stands unsurpassed in ability and resources to manufacture economically and give the greatest intrinsic value possible for a given price.

MILK

MILK is the only animal food that is consumed without being cooked, it is important therefore, in fact, it is a duty that you owe to yourself and family to know where the milk that you are using is produced; to know whether it is a safe milk. Milk must be produced in well ventilated stables, that are kept white-washed and painted and clean at all times, tightly ceiled and used for no other purpose. The udder of each cow must be clean and sound, hair kept clipped, each cow to have at least 600 cubic feet of air space and two square feet of unobstructed window glass for each cow, cows tuberculin tested, sterilized utensils used, cows well fed from wholesome food and lots of pure drinking water. Your milk is either made safe or unsafe at the source of its production. Our milk is produced at Meadow Brook Farm under the most exacting regulations and we extend a cordial invitation to all to visit the farm and see at first hand where, and how the milk is produced, see what painstaking care is taken to produce a safe, clean milk. The cleaner the milk, the safer it is for your baby. Sooner or later you will be interested in your milk supply. "Why not Now ?"

Use Wall Board

If you are going to build or repair, Upson Fibre Tile Wall Board will give you snow-white washable walls in your bathroom and kitchen, as beautiful and lasting as Tile yet costs but one-tenth as much.

When plastered walls begin to crack or sag, when at each repapering they must be patched, and objectionable ridges show beneath the paper, it is time to make them new with Upson Board.

Let us explain to you the many good qualities.

RED BANK BEATS FREEHOLD.

High School Team Trounces County Seat Team by Score of 37 to 2.

By a score of 37 to 2 the Red Bank high school basketball team defeated Freehold high school a few nights ago on the association court here. Freehold made its two points on fouls. Red Bank showed some fine shooting and teamwork. The Red Bank players were Joseph Irwin center, Milton Rose, Harry Klatsky and Bruce Crispell forwards; and Roger Francis and Noel Lartaud guards. Red Bank has not lost a game this year. Red Bank will play Keyport Friday night on the association court. The high school girls' team lost to Asbury Park last Wednesday by a score of 24 to 23. Red Bank outplayed the visiting team, but had hard luck shooting baskets.
